It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

ATTORNEY-GENERAL

OF THE

UNITED STATES

FOR

THE YEAR 1898.

WASHINGTON:
GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE.

THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, D. C., November 30, 1898.
To the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled:

In compliance with the statutes, I have the honor to submit the following report of the transactions of the Department of Justice and of the business of the Federal courts during the past year:

The year has been one of unprecedented activity and business in this Department.

In addition to the volume of legal business, which is constantly and rapidly increasing, the war with Spain, in connection with the legislation relative thereto, has given rise to many new and difficult questions of great importance, calling for definition and interpretation.

The war-revenue act has been especially productive of doubtful questions, and many instances of advice and direction to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue relative to different features of that statute will be found in the report of that officer. The attention of Congress is respectfully called to them in order that, if it be deemed necessary or advisable, Congress may correct any defects or inequalities in the law which the interpretations of the Department of Justice have made evident.

The bankrupt act of July 1, 1898, imposed additional duties upon the Attorney-General.

This act took effect as to petitions in voluntary bankruptcy August 1, 1898. The necessary delay in the promulgation of rules, forms, and orders by the Supreme Court has retarded the full operation of the act, so that during the period that it has been in force the courts in some districts have declined to proceed with the reference and adjudication of petitions, while in others the amount of bankruptcy business done has been very small.

The provisions relative to involuntary bankruptcy did not take effect until November 1, 1898, and consequently no report can be presented as to the operations of this feature.

In the report of my assistant in charge of bankruptcy matters will be found detailed statements of the petitions which have been filed in each district down to the 1st of October of the present year, and sundry suggestions as to the amendment and improvement of the act, to which the attention of Congress is respectfully called.

PRIZE CASES.

Very soon after the outbreak of the war with Spain this Department was called upon to take charge of legal proceedings for the condemnation of vessels and cargoes captured by our Navy as prize and brought into our ports for adjudication. As early as April 22, two Spanish vessels—the Buena Ventura and the Pedro—were so taken, and thereafter similar captures were made by our war ships during the progress of the war until a total of 56 vessels were brought into various ports and libeled as prize. Of this number 50 were taken to Key West, within the jurisdiction of the southern district of Florida, 4 were taken to Charleston, 1 to Savannah, and 1 to New York.

This large accession of litigation in a branch of jurisprudence novel to the judges and lawyers of this generation entailed upon the Department of Justice a largely increased burden of labor and responsibility. It is due to the several district attorneys and marshals within whose districts the cases came, especially to those of the southern district of Florida, where the greater portion of them were tried, to bear testimony to the promptitude, ability, and success with which they discharged their several duties in the disposition of these cases. In this difficult and responsible work they have been greatly aided by the district judges, who have afforded the Government and claimants unusual privileges and accommodation for expediting the hearings. All but eight of the fifty cases brought in the Florida district have been heard and decided, those still undecided being cases of capture during the later stages of the war.

The amount realized from the sale of captured vessels and cargoes condemned as prize is $701,034.36.

In ten cases appeals have been taken on the part of the claimants to the United States Supreme Court from the decree of the district court, and are now pending.

I have annexed to this report a table (Exhibit Z) showing the vessels captured, the date of seizure, the decree of the court, whether of condemnation or release, the amount at which each vessel was sold, etc.

THE SUPREME COURT.

The accompanying table shows the result of last year's work of the Supreme Court of the United States so far as the number of cases can show it. There was an increase of 18 in the number of cases docketed on the appellate docket, and a decrease of 62 in the number disposed of, the number remaining having been reduced thereby from 383 to 313.

	Appellate docket—October term.
	1890.	1891.	1892.	1893.	1894.	1895.	1896.	1897.
Cases at close of previous term not disposed of	1,177	1,190	1,073	934	714	640	533	383
Cases docketed at the term	623	379	275	280	332	382	284	302
Total	1,800	1,569	1,348	1,214	1,046	1,022	817	685
Cases disposed of at the term	610	496	414	500	406	489	434	372
Cases remaining undisposed of	1,190	1,073	934	714	640	533	383	313

The appellate docket at the close of the last term shows a decrease of 70 pending cases since the close of the preceding term. At the close of the October term, 1896, there remained undisposed of on the appellate docket 383 cases and upon the original docket 4 cases, making a total of 387. The number of cases docketed at the October term, 1897, was 302; all of which were on the appellate docket, which, with the 4 cases pending on the original docket, make the total number of cases pending at that term 689, of which 685 were on the appellate and 4 on the original docket. Of this number 373 were disposed of during the October term, 1897, of which 372 were on the appellate and 1 on the original docket, leaving undisposed of at the close of the October term, 1897, 316 cases, of which 313 were on the appellate and 3 on the original docket.

The number of cases actually considered by the court was 311, of which 179 were argued orally and 132 submitted on printed arguments. Of the 372 appellate cases disposed of, 127 were affirmed, 71 reversed, 75 dismissed, 36 settled by the parties and dismissed, in 14 questions certified were answered, and 49 were denials of petitions for writs of certiorari under the act of March 3, 1891.

The total number of cases on the appellate docket in which the United States was a party or had a substantial interest disposed of at the October term, 1897, was 86. The United States was appellant, etc., in 33 of these cases, and appellee, etc., in 46 (1 being a cross appeal), in 1 case was not a party to the record, and 7 cases were certifications of questions by the circuit court of appeals.

Of the 33 cases appealed, etc., by the Government, 12 were decided in its favor and 8 adversely; 10 cases were dismissed by it, 1 was dismissed per stipulation, and 2 were dismissed by the court. In addition, in 7 cases in which questions were certified, 2 were answered in favor of the Government, 4 adversely, and 1 case was dismissed by the court.

Of the 46 cases in which the Government was appellee, etc., 25 were determined in its favor and 6 adversely, 2 were dismissed by the appellants, etc., 8 were dismissed by the court for failure of the appellant, etc., to comply with the rules, 1 was docketed and dismissed, 1 was dismissed because abated, in 1 error was confessed, and 2 were reversed by stipulation.

Of the above 86 cases 19 were appeals from the Court of Claims, of which 13 were taken by the Government. Of the 19 cases so appealed 4 were decided in favor of the Government and 4 adversely, 4 were dismissed by it, and 1 was dismissed per stipulation, while of the 6 cases in which it was appellee 5 were decided in its favor and 1 adversely.

Of the 86 cases disposed of 16 were criminal, of which 9 were decided in favor of the United States and 3 adversely, 2 were dismissed by the court for failure of the plaintiffs in error to comply with the rules, 1 was dismissed by the plaintiff in error, and in 1 error was confessed by the United States.

Three of these 16 criminal cases were capital, of which 1 was decided in favor of the United States and 1 adversely, and in 1 error was confessed by the United States.

Ten cases were appeals, etc., from the circuit court of appeals, of which 2 were decided in favor of, 3 against the United States, 3 were dismissed by the United States, and 2 were dismissed by the court.

Twenty cases were from the Court of Private Land Claims, 3 of which were appealed by the Government and 18 by the other side, 1 being a cross appeal. Of these 20, 10 were decided in favor of the United States and 2 adversely, 1 was dismissed by the other side, and 4 in which the United States was appellee were dismissed for noncompliance with the rules, 2 were dismissed per stipulation, and 1 was docketed and dismissed.

In 2 cases in which the United States was petitioner, petitions for certiorari under the act of March 3, 1891, were granted, and on final hearing the decision was in favor of the United States in 1 case, and against it in the other.

Of the whole number of cases, in which the Government had a substantial interest, heard and decided by the court, 38 were decided in favor of and 18 against the United States.

SUPREME COURT ARCHIVES.

The recent outbreak of fire in the Capitol, involving the quarters occupied by the Supreme Court and its officers, whereby the very valuable records of the court were endangered, serves to call attention to the unprotected condition of these archives. To protect and preserve them, I recommend that an adequate appropriation be made to furnish fire-proof file cases in the office of the clerk.

IMPORTANT CASES DECIDED IN THE SUPREME COURT.

Among the more important litigation concluded during the past year is that of The United States v. The North American Commercial Company. By an indenture, bearing date March 12, 1890, made by the Secretary of the Treasury with this company, it became the lessee of the seal fisheries on the Pribilof Islands of St. George and St. Paul, in Alaska, for a period of twenty years, at an annual rental of $60,000, in addition to which the company agreed to pay a revenue tax or duty of $2 upon each fur-seal skin taken and shipped, and also the further sum of $7.62½ for each fur-seal skin so taken and shipped. The right of the company to engage in the business of taking fur seals on these Islands was exclusive.

An action was brought by the United States against the company in the United States circuit court at New York City to recover the annual rental, as defined in the lease, for the year ending April 1, 1894, which amounted, according to the claim of the Government, to $132,187.50. The company disputed its obligation to pay this rental upon the ground that by the convention or agreement between the United States and the Government of Great Britain, commonly called the modus vivendi, established during the pendency of the arbitration between those two governments relating to the Behring Sea controversy and the preservation of the seals resorting to those waters, the United States prohibited the company from taking in excess of 7,500 seals in the year mentioned. The company further set up a claim for specific damages against the United States by reason of its interference with its alleged right under the lease, the amount of said counterclaim amounting to $287,725 for the skins it could have taken during the season of 1893 had not the United States, under the modus vivendi, prevented it from so doing.

The case having been tried in the circuit court, without a jury, that court awarded to the United States the sum of $94,687.50, with interest. The said court, as to the counterclaim of the company, decided that by reason of the breach of the lease by the United States prohibiting the defendant from taking any seal skins during the year 1893, the United States was liable to the company for the sum of $142,187.50, but that on account of the failure of the company to present its claim and have it disallowed by the accounting officers of the Treasury, it could not be allowed as a counterclaim or credit in that suit, and was accordingly dismissed, but not on the merits, and without prejudice to the right of the company to enforce its claim by any other proper legal proceeding.

The case having been appealed and removed to the Supreme Court, it was decided on May 31, 1898, substantially in favor of the Government, the amount of the judgment in the case pending being reduced, however, to $76,687.50. The more material part of the defendant's case, which consisted of its counterclaim, was expressly and finally overruled by the Supreme Court upon the merits, and held to be unfounded.

VIII

The annual rental due upon the lease for the years 1895, 1896, and 1897 had not been paid, but held in abeyance to await the settlement of the disputes that existed between the company and the Government, and thereupon, the court having decided the disputed points, the company promptly made settlement of the rental for those years, and paid into the Treasury of the United States the sum of $836,374.32, leaving an unadjusted balance of interest still unpaid.

The case in the Supreme Court is reported in 171 U. S., p. 110.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY v. UNITED STATES.

(168 U. S., 1.)

The title of the United States to some 700,000 acres of land, included in the grant of 1866 to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company and forfeited to the Government by the act of 1886, was quieted as against the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, the court following its decision in United States v. Southern Pacific (146 U. S., 570), holding that by the filing of maps of definite location in 1872 the rights of the Atlantic and Pacific Company attached as of the date of the grant of 1866, thus precluding the Southern Pacific Company from acquiring any title under its grant of 1871.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION v. ALABAMA MIDLAND RAILWAY COMPANY.

(168 U. S., 144.)

The court, adhering to its decisions in 162 U. S., 184 and 167 U. S., 479, held that Congress has no power to prescribe or enforce rates; and that competition between rival routes is one of the matters which can be properly considered in making rates and charging more for a shorter than for a longer haul. In his dissenting opinion, Mr. Justice Harlan says it seems to him that this decision goes far to make the Interstate Commerce Commission "a useless body for all practical purposes" (p. 176). The case deserves a careful reading in connection with any proposed amendment of the interstate commerce act.

BRAM v. UNITED STATES.

(168 U. S., 532.)

The conviction of Bram, sentenced to death for murder on the high seas, was reversed because of the admission of certain testimony. Mr. Justice Brewer, with whom concurred Mr. Chief Justice Fuller and Mr. Justice Brown, dissented. The case is important, not because of the question of law involved, but because of the exceptionally horrible nature of the crime. Bram, the first mate of the schooner Herbert Fuller, sailing from Boston, was charged with the murder of the captain, the captain's wife, and the second mate on the high seas in the dead of night while the ship was in Bram's charge and his victims asleep below. The second trial following this reversal resulted in a second conviction, but under the act passed January 15, 1897 (chap. 29, 29 Stats., 487) the jury, from some unknown reason, qualified their verdict so as to make the penalty imprisonment for life. When this jury found that Bram murdered the captain, it of necessity found that he also murdered the captain's wife and the second mate under circumstances which demand the infliction of the extreme penalty of the law. The indictments against Bram for the murder of the captain's wife and the second mate have not yet been brought to trial.

WILSON v. LAMBERT.

(168 U. S., 611.)

The validity of the sixth section of the act of September 27, 1890, establishing the Rock Creek Park, which authorizes an assessment upon adjacent property for locating and improving it, was upheld as valid.

UNITED STATES v. PASSAVANT.

(169 U. S., 16.)

This was a customs case in which the court held that the Board of General Appraisers, under section 14 of the customs administrative act, has jurisdiction to inquire into and impeach the dutiable valuation reported to the collector by the appraiser, and that a tax imposed by a foreign government on merchandise sold or consumed in that country, but remitted when exported, may lawfully be included in estimating the dutiable value of such merchandise when imported into this country.

UNITED STATES v. KLUMPP.

(169 U. S., 209.)

In this case the court held that the provision in the tariff act of 1894 postponing the reduction of duties on manufactures of wool applied to worsted goods, such goods being made of wool.

PAYNE v. ROBERTSON.

(169 U. S., 323.)

The court held that a United States deputy marshal, who had, as such, entered Oklahoma prior to the opening of the lands for settlement, was, because of his official character, disqualified from making a homestead entry immediately upon the lands being opened for settlement.

BARRETT v. UNITED STATES.

(169 U. S., 218.)

Held, that the State of South Carolina constitutes but one judicial district.

UNITED STATES EX REL. BERNARDIN v. BUTTERWORTH.

(169 U. S., 600.)

Held, that a suit in mandamus to compel the Commissioner of Patents to issue a patent abates by the death of the Commissioner, and can not be revived so as to bring in his successor, although the latter gives his consent.

UNITED STATES AND COMANCHE INDIANS v. KEMP.

(169 U. S., 733.)

The judgment of the Court of Claims was affirmed by a divided court. The case turned on a question involving the validity of several million dollars of claims growing out of alleged Indian depredations. The Government contended that these claims, under the Indian treaties, should have been presented within the proper time to the tribes. The Court of Claims held that this was not necessary.

UNITED STATES v. WONG KIM ARK.

(169 U. S., 649.)

This exceptionally important case was argued in March, 1897, and decided in March, 1898. The court, Mr. Chief Justice Fuller and Mr. Justice Harlan dissenting, held that a child born in the United States of Chinese parents, who were subjects of the Emperor of China, but permanently domiciled and carrying on business in this country, became at the time of his birth a citizen of the United States, by virtue of the first clause of the fourteenth amendment, that "all persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside."

NEW YORK INDIANS v. UNITED STATES.

(170 U. S., 615.)

The court, Mr. Chief Justice Fuller and Mr. Justice Harlan dissenting, reversed the judgment of the Court of Claims and found in favor of the New York Indians on their claim against the Government for the amount received by it for the Kansas lands, secured to the Indians by treaty, subject to certain deductions. The judgment recovered by the Indians under this decision will amount to $1,961,400.

UNITED STATES v. LIES.

(170 U. S., 628.)

Held, that when the Government takes no appeal from the action of the board of appraisers upon an importer's protest, made under the customs administrative act, it is bound by that action, and in case the importer appeals, and subsequently abandons his appeal, the Government can not claim to be heard, but it is the duty of the court to affirm the decision of the appraisers.

ANDERSEN v. UNITED STATES.

(170 U. S., 481.)

This case, like the Bram case, is of interest because of the unusual and dramatic features of the crime. Andersen was the cook of the American schooner Olive Pecker, which sailed from Boston for a port in South America with a cargo of lumber. When off the coast of Brazil, after an altercation with the captain, Andersen murdered him in his cabin, and taking the arms of the captain and mate went on deck, called the mate down from aloft, killed him, took command of the vessel, compelled the crew, at the point of his pistols, to throw the bodies of the mate and captain overboard, then burn the ship and take to an open boat. They landed on the Brazilian coast. As soon as Andersen separated from the crew they hunted up the authorities, told the story of the tragedy, and Andersen was arrested at Bahia, where he had shipped under an assumed name and was about to sail. He was brought to Norfolk on the U. S. S. Lancaster, tried, convicted, and sentenced to death. The Supreme Court affirmed the judgment.

WHITE v. BERRY.

(170 U. S., 366.)

Berry, a gauger at a distillery in West Virginia, sued for an injunction against White, collector of internal revenue for that district, to restrain the collector from removing him from office or appointing anybody in his place. The court held that a court of equity has no jurisdiction over the appointment and removal of public officers, and therefore reversed the lower court, which allowed the injunction.

POTOMAC FLATS CASES.

The questions involved in this litigation, which were carried into the Supreme Court of the United States, were argued at great length quite recently, and the decision of the court thereon is now awaited.

UNITED STATES v. JOINT TRAFFIC ASSOCIATION, ET ALs.

(171 U. S., 505.)

This important case was argued on February 24 and 25, 1898, and decided October 24, 1898. It was a suit brought under the antitrust law to have the agreement creating the Joint Traffic Association declared illegal and its further execution enjoined. The joint traffic agreement went into effect January 1, 1896. Under it thirty-one railroad companies, constituting nine trunk line systems, namely, the Baltimore and Ohio, the Chesapeake and Ohio, the Erie, the Grand Trunk, the Lackawanna, the Lehigh, the Pennsylvania, the Vanderbilt, and the Wabash, practically controlling the business of railroad transportation between Chicago and the Atlantic coast, entered into an agreement for the purpose of maintaining rates and fares on all competitive traffic.

The agreement provided for several boards, to which was given control of the business intrusted to the association. The most important of these was the board of managers, composed of one member from each of the nine trunk-line systems mentioned. The managers were to have their principal office in New York, and were given power to construe the agreement and from time to time to change the rates and fares. They were charged with the duty of securing to each company its equitable proportion of the competitive traffic covered by the agreement. It is impracticable to state here the various provisions of this skillfully drafted contract.

The Government contended that the agreement violated the anti-trust law because it created an association of competing trunk-line systems, to which was given jurisdiction over competitive interstate traffic, with power, through a central authority, aided by a skillful scheme of restrictions, regulations, and penalties, to establish and maintain rates and fares on such traffic and prevent competition, thus constituting a contract in restraint of trade and commerce among the several States, as defined by the Supreme Court in the Trans-Missouri Case, 166 U. S., 290.

On the other hand, it was insisted that the contract was not in restraint of trade or commerce, but that all the members of the association would continue in business, doing the utmost they could, and in competition with each other; that the only restraint imposed was upon an excessive and unwholesome competition, injurious alike to the railroads and the public. It was further contended that if the antitrust law was to be so construed as to prevent reasonable contracts, such as the one in question, then it must be held repugnant to the Constitution in that it would deprive the railroad companies of both liberty and property by forbidding a contract just and reasonable in itself and essential to the use of their property and the prosecution of their business.

The court held, Mr. Justice Peckham delivering the opinion, following the Trans-Missouri Case, that the joint traffic agreement was in violation of the antitrust law, and therefore void; and it further held that Congress in dealing with interstate commerce, and in the course of regulating it in the case of railroad corporations, has the power to say that no contract or combination shall be legal which shall restrain trade and commerce by shutting out the operation of the general law of competition.

THE COURT OF CLAIMS.

The conduct of the cases involving claims against the United States in the Court of Claims is under the charge of Assistant Attorney-General Pradt, whose administration of the business of the Government has been intelligently and successfully conducted during the year. For full details of the number of cases there pending, the amounts claimed, the amounts recovered, and the suits in which judgments have been rendered for the Government, together with other interesting and important details under this heading, reference is made to the report of Assistant Attorney-General Pradt, which is hereto appended. (Exhibit 2.)

INDIAN DEPREDAATION CLAIMS.

By reference to the report of Assistant Attorney-General Thompson, it will be seen that an important question has been raised by the defendants in the defense of Indian depredation claims.

Before March 3, 1891, these claims for losses on account of property stolen by Indians were passed upon by Congress or by the Secretary of the Interior. On March 3, 1891, Congress passed an act transferring all of these claims from the Department of the Interior to the Court of Claims, and gave to the Court of Claims jurisdiction to hear and determine them.

The Court of Claims has at all times held that this act was purely jurisdictional in its character; that it gave to that court jurisdiction merely to determine whether or not the United States and the defendant tribes of Indians were liable for losses under the treaties that had, prior to that time, been made between the United States and the defendant tribes of Indians, and under the statutes that had been passed from time to time.

Many of the treaties between the United States and the Indian tribes provided that—

If bad men among the Indians shall commit a wrong or depredation upon the person or property of anyone—white, black, or Indians—subject to the authority of the United States and at peace therewith, the tribes herein named solemnly agree that they will, on proof made to their agent and notice by him, deliver up the wrongdoer to the United States to be tried and punished according to its laws, and in case they wilfully refuse so to do, the person injured shall be reimbursed for his loss from the annuities or other moneys due or to become due to them under this or other treaties made with the United States.

All of the statutes creating a liability for losses on account of property stolen by Indians that were passed by Congress before the act of March 3, 1891, provided in substance that if an Indian or Indians took the property of any citizen or inhabitant of the United States, such citizen or inhabitant, his representative, attorney, or agent should make application to the proper superintendent, agent, or subagent, who, upon being furnished with the necessary documents and proofs, should, under the direction of the President, make application to the nation or tribe to which such Indian or Indians belonged for satisfaction, and if such nation or tribe should neglect or refuse to make satisfaction in a reasonable time, not exceeding twelve months, it should be the duty of such superintendent, agent, or subagent to make return of his doings to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, that such further steps might be taken as may be proper, in the opinion of the President, to obtain satisfaction for the injury. (See acts of 1796, 1799, 1802, and 1834.)

Under this provision of the treaty and the further provision of the statute it was contended by the defendants, the United States and the Indian tribes, that before the tribe could be held liable for the wrongful and unauthorized act of one of its members outside of the Indian reservation the Indian tribe was entitled to a notice of the commission of the offense and a demand for satisfaction, in order that it might be able to investigate the same or take any steps with reference to such wrongful acts as it might deem proper to avoid tribal liability.

It was contended by the defense that the tribal liability arose not from the commission of the offense, but from a failure to cause satisfaction to be made for the wrong done by its members after the wrong had been properly brought to its attention.

Upon this question the Court of Claims made two decisions. In its first decision it held that under this provision of the treaty the Indian tribe was entitled to the demand and notice therein specified as a condition precedent to tribal liability, and in that case, no such demand having been made or notice given, the court held that the claimant could not recover. (See Brown v. The United States, 32 C. Cls. R., p. 411.) Upon a motion for a new trial in the same cases the Court of Claims reversed itself and held that no such demand or notice was necessary, and that the claimant could recover. (See Brown v. The United States, 32 C. Cls. R., p. 432.)

In 1897 the case of Kemp v. The United States was appealed by Assistant Attorney-General Thompson to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that question was presented to that court. The case was argued in December, 1897, and in January, 1898, the Supreme Court announced that it affirmed the last decision of the Court of Claims by an equally divided court. A motion for a rehearing was made in that case and overruled by the court. In May, 1898, the case of Samuel W. Hood v. The United States and Comanche Indians was appealed by Assistant Attorney-General Thompson to the Supreme Court of the United States. This case presented the same question. It was argued on October 24, 1898, before that court, there being only eight justices who participated in the decision, Mr. Justice McKenna not sitting. On November 14, 1898, the Supreme Court again announced that it affirmed the last decision of the Court of Claims by an equally divided court, but rendered no opinion.

There have been filed in the Court of Claims about ten thousand cases for Indian depredations. In a great many of these cases the claims were never in any manner called to the attention of the tribe, so that a decision, either for the claimant or the defendants, upon this question means a determination as to the expenditure of several millions of dollars.

As the matter now stands it is in a very unsatisfactory condition. If the decision of the Court of Claims had been favorable to the Government and the claimants had appealed, and the Supreme Court had then been equally divided upon the question, that would have left the decision of the question in favor of the Government.

It was contended by the claimants that even if the treaties and laws prior to the act of March 3, 1891, required this demand upon and notice to the Indian tribe as a condition precedent to the tribal liability, yet Congress by the act of 1891 waived this demand and notice, either expressly by section 2 of the act of 1891 or by requiring the court to render judgment for the claimant as soon as it ascertained certain specified facts.

Judgments to the amount of about $300,000 were appropriated for by the last Congress. Motions for a new trial have been filed in those cases. The question as to the liability of the defendants in these cases depended upon the determination of this question and, as before stated, in a great many of the cases that have not been tried the demand and notice above referred to have not been made or given.

In view of the fact that the courts seem to find it so difficult to determine whether or not Congress by the act of 1891 intended to waive this demand and notice, I deem it proper to submit to Congress the question whether or not it would be well to pass a declaratory amendment to the act of 1891, stating clearly the intention of Congress upon that particular subject.

PACIFIC RAILROAD MATTERS.

In the annual report of this Department for the year 1897 a full account was given of all the proceedings in the cases then pending for the foreclosure of the Government subsidy liens and the other mortgages upon the Union Pacific Railroad, and it was there stated that on November 1, 1897, this property, comprising what is known as the main line of the Union Pacific Railroad, extending from Council Bluffs to the western terminal point, 5 miles beyond Ogden, with its branches, franchises, and equipments, was struck off and sold to purchasing trustees, on behalf of the mortgagees, creditors, and stockholders associated together for the reorganization of the company, for the sum of $58,448,223.75, being the total amount due to the Government, as stated by the Secretary of the Treasury, including the sum of $4,549,368.26, cash in the sinking fund. By the terms of the decree in the foreclosure sale this cash in the sinking fund was directed to be applied to the credit of the United States upon the confirmation of the purchase.

The purchasers of the property, in compliance with their bid, have since paid into the Treasury an amount which, added to the sinking fund thus applied, aggregates $58,448,223.75, being the full amount of the principal and interest due the Government upon its subsidy, thus relieving the United States from any loss whatever upon their claim, and bringing to a final and most satisfactory termination this long-standing and troublesome subject.

The sale of the Kansas Pacific line, upon which the Government held a second-mortgage lien, having been, as stated in the report of 1897, postponed at the instance of the Government to December 15, 1897, was further, upon the application of the United States, postponed to the 16th day of February, 1898.

By the decree of the court in that case, an upset price on the sale of the property was fixed at a sum which would yield to the Government only $2,500,000 upon its claim. The reorganization committee, in conference with this Department, declared its purpose of making no larger bid than that fixed by the decree of the court, so that the Government was confronted with a danger of receiving for its total lien upon this line, amounting to nearly $13,000,000, principal and interest, only the above-mentioned sum of $2,500,000. Believing that the interests of the Government required that an effort should be made to obtain a larger sum, the President of the United States was advised by me that under the act entitled "An act authorizing an investigation of the books, accounts, and methods of railroads which have received aid from the United States, and for other purposes," passed March 3, 1887, the Government had the right to redeem the incumbrances upon the property which were prior to the lien of the Government subsidy by paying the sums lawfully due in respect thereof out of the Treasury of the United States, so that the United States should thereupon become and be subrogated to all rights and securities theretofore pertaining to the liens and mortgages in respect of which such payments should be made. Accordingly, on the 8th day of February, 1898, in pursuance of the act of 1887, the President, by Executive order, authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to pay out of the Treasury to the person or persons lawfully entitled to receive the same the amounts lawfully due upon the prior mortgages upon the eastern and middle division of said railroad out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated. Thereupon, under my direction, a petition was prepared to be presented to the court, offering to redeem said prior liens in such manner as the court might direct, and praying that thereupon the United States might be held to be subrogated to all the rights of said prior lien holders, and that a receiver might be appointed to take possession of the mortgaged premises, and maintain and operate the same until Congress or the court otherwise provided, and that the sale fixed for February 16, 1898, might be postponed.

Moved by this action of the Government for the redemption of the prior liens and the postponement of the sale, the reorganization committee agreed, provided said petition should be withdrawn and the sale allowed to proceed, that they would bid at the sale for said road a sum which would realize to the Government the whole amount of the principal of its debt, namely, $6,303,000. Believing from all the information this Department was able to obtain that no better price than this could be obtained at a later date if the sale should be postponed, and appreciating the embarrassment and difficulty under which the Government would labor if it should become the purchaser of the property at the sale in the absence of any legislation by Congress which would enable any of the Executive Departments to take charge of and operate the road, it was deemed best to permit the sale to proceed, upon the guarantee of a minimum bid which would realize to the Government the whole principal of its debt, and the sale thereupon took place, the property being struck off to the representatives of the reorganization committee at a figure which yielded to the Government the sum above mentioned. It will thus be perceived that the Government secured an advance of $3,803,000 on account of its lien, over and above the sum which the court had fixed as the upset price, and which the reorganization committee had declared was the maximum which they were willing to pay for the property.

The total result of these proceedings against the Union Pacific system, embracing the main line and the Kansas Pacific line, is that the Government has received on account of its subsidy claim the sum of $64,751,223.75, which is an increase of $18,997,163.76 over the sum which the reorganization committee first agreed to bid for the joint property, leaving due to the Government only the interest on the Kansas Pacific subsidy, amounting to about $6,500,000.

Under my direction, on April 2, 1898, application was made to the circuit court of the United States for the eighth circuit for a deficiency decree for the amount of said unpaid interest. The Union Pacific Railway Company answered this petition, denying the right of the United States to a deficiency decree, contending, in substance, that it did not assume to pay or become liable for the debts of the Kansas Pacific Railway by its articles of union and consolidation with that company or otherwise, and that, on the contrary, by the articles of union and consolidation it is expressly provided that the Union Pacific Company should not assume the debts and liabilities of the constituent companies. This application was subsequently referred for hearing to William D. Cornish, special master, and the matter still rests in that condition, proceedings thereon having been suspended on account of reasons which are now stated.

On the 14th day of February, 1898, upon the application of the receivers in the original Ames foreclosure case, the court made an order providing, among other things, that all persons claiming any interest in or lien upon any of the funds or property in the hands of the receivers, either as creditors of the receivers or as creditors of the Union Pacific Railway Company, should file their claims with William D. Cornish, special master, on or before the 1st day of July, 1898, and that any party to the suits, or who filed a claim in accordance with the order, might file an answer to the claim of any other party within a limited time. By my direction there was filed with said master a claim of the United States against the funds in the receivers' hands, setting forth the facts upon which the same was based and claiming the same amount as before stated in the petition for a deficiency decree. Many other claims, aggregating a great amount, have been filed with the master under the foregoing order, and nearly every claimant has filed an answer contesting the right of every other claimant. These matters are still pending, and testimony therein is now being taken. The proceedings in the later matter practically superseded those filed to obtain a decree for deficiency, and rendered the further prosecution of the latter application unnecessary.

There is a sum amounting to about $548,000 in the hands of the American Loan and Trust Company, of Boston, as trustee, which represents the proceeds of certain securities mortgaged to said trustee for the benefit and further security of the first-mortgage bonds of the Kansas Pacific Railway, having priority over the lien of the United States, and for the benefit, protection, and further security of the United States in respect of such subsidy bonds and interest thereon. Due proceedings have been taken to present the rights of the Government as to this fund, and to obtain the same, or so much thereof as the Government may be entitled to according to the equities of the case.

It is hoped and expected that from the two sources mentioned a substantial sum will be collected by the Government to be applied toward the satisfaction of the balance remaining due on the Kansas Pacific claim.

The indebtedness of the Central Pacific Railroad Company to the Government having become due on the 1st of January, 1898, and default in the payment thereof having been made by the company, I took steps to prepare the necessary papers to foreclose the Government's lien. Before the preparation of the foreclosure papers was completed, Congress by act approved July 7, 1898, enacted the following:

That the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of the Interior, and the Attorney-General, and their successors in office, be, and they are hereby, appointed a commission with full power to settle the indebtedness to the Government growing out of the issue of bonds in aid of the construction of the Central Pacific and Western Pacific bond-aided railroads, upon such terms and in such manner as may be agreed upon by them, or by a majority of them, and the owners of said railroads: Provided, That any and all settlements thus made shall be submitted in writing to the President for his approval or disapproval, and unless approved by him shall not be binding.

That said commission shall not agree to accept a less sum in settlement of the amount due the United States than the full amount of the principal and interest and all amounts necessary to reimburse the United States for moneys paid for interest or otherwise: And also provided, That said commission are hereby empowered to grant such time or times of payment by installment, and at such rates of interest, to be not less than three per centum per annum, payable semiannually, and with such security as to said commission may seem expedient: Provided, however, That in any settlement that may be made the final payment and full discharge of said indebtedness shall not be postponed to exceed ten years, and the whole amount, principal and interest, shall be paid in equal semiannual installments within the period so limited, and in any settlement made it shall be provided that if default shall be made in any payment of either principal or interest, or any part thereof, then the whole sum and all installments, principal and interest, shall immediately become due and payable, notwithstanding any other stipulation of said settlement: Provided further, That unless the settlement herein authorized be perfected within one year after the passage of this act the President of the United States shall at once proceed to foreclose all liens now held by the United States against said railroad companies and to collect the indebtedness herein sought to be settled, and nothing in this act contained shall be held to waive or release any right, lien, or cause of action already held by the United States.

That there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of twenty thousand dollars to defray the expenses of said commission in making the said settlement.

In view of this action of Congress, I have suspended the proceedings for foreclosure, and the commissioners appointed by the above-quoted act are awaiting action on the part of the company looking to a settlement of the indebtedness in accordance with the terms laid down therein.

ALASKA.

The attention of Congress is called to the necessity of providing a more complete and adequate form of government for this Territory. The efforts to administer justice and maintain order in the Territory, with the large accessions of population that have recently gone into that region, restricted by the very limited machinery provided for Alaska in its original sparsely populated condition, are attended with great difficulty and embarrassment. The power of Congress to provide a form of government adapted to the peculiar conditions of this Territory is undoubted. The machinery of justice is entirely inadequate. There should be an increase in the number of judges, the number of United States commissioners and United States district attorneys. The powers of United States commissioners in that Territory should be increased, so as to enable them to hear and conclude minor cases of both civil and criminal nature, with right of appeal to the Territorial district court. Much complaint arises from the operations of the fee system in connection with the office of United States commissioner. I recommend that a change in the method of compensating these officers be made, so that their compensation shall be paid entirely by a fixed salary, and all fees covered into the Treasury. In this manner the incentives to extortion and oppression will be removed. The salaries, instead of being, as they now are, in the cases of judges and district attorneys, less than in other places, should, on account of the high cost of living and the desirability of securing men of the highest fitness, be really larger than in Territories within the limits of the United States.

The administration of a code of civil and criminal law, based upon the laws of the State of Oregon, is not entirely satisfactory. The establishment, under limited powers, of a legislative form of government for the Territory is suggested. Such a government could be established in the form of a governor and legislative council, the members of the legislative council to be appointed by the President, with power to pass laws, subject to the approval of the President, upon subjects of internal concern coming under the head of police and municipal jurisdiction. Very often it is found that the laws made applicable by Congress to this Territory are in effect inadequate or inapplicable under the peculiar circumstances. This disadvantage would be removed by the plan hereby suggested, and in effect a form of home rule would be given to the Territory, which would enable it to provide by its own legislation for those matters which are purely domestic or special and peculiar to that jurisdiction.

I concur in all the recommendations with reference to this Territory which are contained in the report of my colleague, the Secretary of the Interior, and call attention to what I have said on the same subject under the head of "Revision and codification."

THE DEPARTMENT BUILDING.

A new building for the Department of Justice is a necessity, and I strenuously urge upon Congress immediate action as to the erection of one, and for providing such temporary additional room for the Department as will prevent damage to the public business while awaiting its completion. As long ago as 1885 Attorney-General Garland recommended to Congress the erection of such a building, and repeated that recommendation in his reports for 1886, 1887, and 1888, saying that the building "now occupied by the Department is neither large enough nor of suitable construction and arrangement for its proper accommodation. The reasons for this suggestion which I gave before exist now and gain strength with every year that passes."

In his report for 1891 Attorney-General Miller said:

Aside from the work thus brought in by special enactments, the growth of the country results yearly in a large increase of business in the Department, and if this business is to be transacted in any proper manner, provision must be made by Congress for enlarged quarters for the Department.

On the 14th of June, 1893, Attorney-General Olney requested the Secretary of the Treasury to have such an examination of the building made by the Supervising Architect as would assure him and others who might have to occupy the building "that it is perfectly safe and entirely fitted for such use as it is now or is likely to be put to under the present Administration."

The Supervising Architect closed his detailed report of June 28 with the statement:

I do not consider the building "perfectly safe or entirely fitted for such use as it is now or is likely to be put to under the present Administration."

The need of more room became so pressing, that Attorney-General Harmon made a personal appeal to Congress before the Appropriations Committee, urging the removal of the Court of Claims to suitable quarters, so that the library of the Department might be taken from its dangerous position on the fourth floor and placed upon the ground floor, now occupied by the court, and suggested a plan for providing quarters for the court and an appropriation to pay the rent of these and the expenses of removal. No action, however, was taken upon the matter.

Recently, at my request, the Secretary of the Treasury had an examination of the building made by the present Supervising Architect, who, after reporting upon the condition of the building, says:

The present space is entirely inadequate to meet the requirements of the Department, and it would be manifestly unsafe to add an additional story. It would seem that the proper method which should be adopted to afford the desired relief would be the erection of a new building on the adjoining lot, and on the completion thereof that the present building be removed.

The situation imperatively demands immediate action. In 1885, when Mr. Garland thought a new building necessary, the entire force of the Department was 67. It is now 121. A great deal of the work done is, of course, legal, and attorneys in charge of important matters should have separate rooms where they are not subjected to the interruptions and outside disturbances that must necessarily occur when a number of them are obliged to occupy desks in the same room. Other employes of the Department are crowded in such a manner as seriously to interfere with the proper discharge of their duties; so that, both because of the number of people and the character of their duties, the room in the Department is 50 per cent less than it should be for present use, without any provision for future expansion.

The library of the Department is upon the fourth floor of the building. All the rooms allotted to it are so crowded with books as to be dangerously overloaded. The halls upon that floor have been lined with cases. Every inch of space in the basement or cellar of the Department is filled with stationery and library books. There is no room within the building for anything more. The library, as a matter of course, is receiving constant accessions, and something must be done to provide room for them. The only solution is the erection of a new building for the Department, and, pending its erection, the removal of the Court of Claims to other quarters, so that the rooms now occupied by it can be used for the library, the dangerous strain upon the building relieved, and some small additional space be made available for the official force.

To summarize, I may say that the building is too small for its purpose, it is unsafe, it is overcrowded and dangerously overloaded.

I recommend, therefore, the erection of a building to cover the whole of the Department lot, that occupied by the present building as well as that not yet built upon. The unoccupied part of the lot can be built upon first; that part occupied when finished, and the present building then torn down and the new one completed. A building of that sort could be made of sufficient size to provide for the needs of the Department for many years and perhaps, for a while at least, to furnish room for temporary commissions and the like provided for by Congress.

I recommend also the appropriation of such an amount as may be necessary to pay all the expenses of providing the Court of Claims with other and suitable quarters and of the removal thereto.

Exhibit X shows the recommendations of former Attorneys-General upon this subject, and the reports of the Supervising Architects on the condition of the building.

UNITED STATES PRISONERS.

On June 30, 1898, the number of United States prisoners in confinement in prisons and reformatories was 3,266, as against 3,077 on June 30 of the previous year, showing an increase of 189. The increase in 1897 over 1896 was but 65. Of the total number in confinement on June 30, 1898 (3,266), which includes persons of both sexes and various ages and races, there were 560 in the United States penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and 81 at the United States penitentiary at McNeils Island, Washington, the remainder (2,625) being imprisoned in the various penal institutions throughout the country.

The fact that within the past year or two the large prisons in several of the States have been closed to Federal prisoners convicted in districts or States other than those in which said institutions are located, has resulted in concentrating large numbers of our convicts in a few institutions, about 700 now being confined in one State penitentiary alone.

Exhibit K, with this report, shows where United States convicts have been confined during the year, the districts from which they were received, and the number in each prison or reformatory.

Federal prisoners confined in State institutions receive the same general treatment as those sentenced by the State courts, no distinction whatever being made so far as food, clothing, and care are concerned. Their labor, however, is not allowed to be contracted by the law a penalty attaches in all cases where this provision is violated. The inspections made during the year by officials of the Department have disclosed the fact that as a rule United States prisoners are well cared for and humanely treated, supplied with food and clothing, and are not overworked nor employed on industrial pursuits. In some cases, indeed, the problem of how to employ them at all, as many of the prison industries have been either abandoned or their operation discontinued. At some institutions the authorities were forced to resort to various schemes in order to give the convicts even the most elementary exercise essential to physical health.

I recommend also the appropriation of such an amount as may be necessary to pay all the expenses of providing the Court of Claims with other and suitable quarters and of the removal thereto.

UNITED STATES PRISONERS.

On June 30, 1898, the number of United States prisoners in confinement in prisons and reformatories was 3,266, as against 3,077 on June 30 of the previous year, showing an increase of 189. The increase in 1897 over 1896 was but 65. Exhibit K, with this report, shows where United States convicts have been confined during the year, the districts from which they were received, and the number in each prison or reformatory.

Federal prisoners confined in State institutions receive the same general treatment as those sentenced by the State courts, no distinction whatever being made so far as food, clothing, and care are concerned. Their labor, however, is not allowed to be contracted out, and by the law a penalty attaches in all cases where this provision is violated. The inspections made during the year by officials of the Department have disclosed the fact that as a rule United States prisoners are well cared for and humanely treated, supplied with sufficient food, and are not overworked nor employed on industries, in violation of statute. In some cases, indeed, the problem for a time was how to employ them at all, as many of the prison industries formerly pursued had been either abandoned or their operations largely curtailed. In some institutions the authorities were forced to resort to various schemes in order to give the convicts even the bodily exercise so essential to physical health.

It is obvious that where prisoners are comparatively idle, or are not employed profitably, the cost to the Government of their maintenance in State institutions is correspondingly higher. For instance, under the conditions prevailing several years ago the best prisons in the country maintained and supplied all the legal wants of Federal prisoners without remuneration other than that derived from their labor. Claiming, and doubtless justly, that the opportunities for profitable prison labor no longer exist or have largely decreased, the same institutions now receive United States prisoners only at prescribed money rates, to be paid by the Government.

The general condition of prisoners, it is believed, improves from year to year, and modern reformatory ideas and methods seem to be taking the place of the older systems to a large extent, so that in the better prisons the convict without the introduction of too much coddling or sentimentalism is given the opportunity to redeem his manhood if he will.

UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY AT FORT LEAVENWORTH, KANS.

The third annual report of the warden of the United States Penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., appears as Exhibit L, and refers to the cost and management of the institution for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898. At that date 560 prisoners were in confinement, which number meets about the maximum limit of the prison. The Congress at its last session wisely appropriated an amount sufficient to erect additional cells similar to those in use, and these are rapidly approaching completion. By means of this addition the capacity of the prison will be so increased that cell room can be furnished to about 800 convicts.

The prisoners have been chiefly employed on the work at the new prison site, building the foundation walls and in labor connected therewith. The new site is situated about $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the present prison, and the men are marched daily to their labor in the morning, returning in the evening to their cells. In this way and in such industries as are necessary in the immediate conduct of the prison ample and profitable employment has been furnished.

The total cost of the institution for all purposes during the year ended June 30, 1898, was $112,475.54, and the daily per capita cost was 63 cents.

In view of the facts recited relative to the character of the prisoners' employment, the necessity for an apparently large guard force, etc., the per capita cost can not be deemed unreasonable.

The prisoners are furnished with excellent food, are comfortably clad, humanely treated, and have been generally maintained in good health, their outdoor employment, doubtless, contributing largely to this result.

THE NEW UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY, FORT LEAVENWORTH, KANS.

The labor on the new penitentiary site has been thus far performed, almost entirely, by the convicts, and has been largely preliminary to the actual work of erecting the wall and buildings.

During the last summer, however, the work on the prison site proper has advanced considerably, and under the supervision of a skilled foreman the stone wall surrounding the enclosure has been completed to the water table for a distance of about 1,000 feet. So far as completed, the work would be creditable to regular artisans, and evidences the careful supervision and faithful labor which have been devoted to it. Most of the prisoners employed, it should be remembered, are, when received at the prison, wholly unfamiliar with this class of work. Among them are Indians, Chinese, and other persons, particularly from the Indian Territory, who have no special trade or calling, and it is requisite, from this unpromising material, to educate and train stone-cutters, brickmakers, masons, and carpenters for the performance of the work in hand. The result is by no means discouraging, and compares favorably with the best contract work.

The outside wall completed will be about 30 feet high and 2,600 feet long.

The entire expenditures connected with the new penitentiary site, including lumber, cement, tramway, and platform cars, derricks, wind-mill, salary of overseer, etc., amount to a trifle less than $8,000. It is estimated that the same results under contract would have involved an expense of about $80,000.

The wisdom of Congress in authorizing the employment of the prisoners on the new prison work is manifest. It affords them healthful outdoor occupation, gives them opportunity to learn a trade as a means to an honest livelihood in the future, and will in time accomplish the desired result of securing a commodious and well-built penitentiary constructed on modern and approved lines.

The report of the warden is annexed as Exhibit L, and furnishes information in detail touching matters referred to herein.

UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY, M'NEILS ISLAND, WASHINGTON.

At the last session of Congress a small appropriation ($5,000) was made for the repair of this prison, and the United States marshal, under the direction of the Department, has caused the necessary alterations to be effected. He now reports that the prison has been made secure and can accommodate 150 prisoners. The institution has heretofore been used only for the confinement of prisoners convicted in the United States courts in the district of Washington. Those from the Alaska district sentenced to a penitentiary have heretofore been sent to the California State prison at San Quentin, but in view of the shorter distance and saving in transportation it will probably be wise to designate the penitentiary at McNeils Island as the place of their confinement hereafter.

The attention of Congress has heretofore been invited to the condition of this institution, and the question submitted as to the propriety and expediency of enlarging it, with the ultimate intention of making it the place of confinement for all United States prisoners (sentenced to a penitentiary) from the Pacific slope districts. The repairs recently made were requisite in order to keep it from actual ruin and decay and to render it reasonably secure, but have not resulted, of course, in increasing its capacity. Whether this prison shall continue to be maintained in its present status or an amount sufficient to convert it into a first-class penitentiary shall be appropriated is a question before the Congress for consideration.

The per capita per diem cost for maintaining this institution is now about 70 cents, which would be decreased in proportion to the increase of the number of its inmates.

UNITED STATES JAIL, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The jail is in good condition and well conducted. Since the last annual report a new cell room for females has been provided, which affords ample accommodation for their separate imprisonment.

An appropriation of $10,000 was made at the last session of Congress toward the erection of a wall around the jail yard, but I am disposed to question the wisdom of carrying out the purpose of the measure, although recommended by my predecessors and the former warden of the jail.

The cost of the proposed wall, if built by contract, is estimated by the Government architect, who was consulted in the matter, at $100,000 or more. This is a large amount to expend for any purpose not an absolute necessity, and, as I have intimated, the necessity for this surrounding wall at present may at least be questioned.

It has occurred to me that it would be advisable to make the institution a "jail and penitentiary," wherein convicts from the District of Columbia, as well as the class now occupying the jail, might be confined. Although under one roof, the jail and penitentiary would be entirely separate and distinct, but could be managed, doubtless, by one superintendent or warden. An amount equal to the estimated cost of the proposed wall would go far toward, or possibly be sufficient for, the accomplishment of this end, and the inclosing wall might afterwards be provided for, to be erected perhaps by the prisoners themselves. About 125 prisoners are sentenced to a penitentiary from the District every year, and it is believed that the plan suggested, if carried out would ultimately result in a saving to the Government by way of transportation, and at the same time avoid the perplexities attending the selection of a proper and convenient place for the confinement of District convicts.

Should this suggestion be favorably received, the question of employment would necessarily require consideration. It is thought, however, that some plan may be devised against which no reasonable objection could be urged for the steady, even if not always remunerative, employment of these convicts. The details relative to prisoners are given in the warden's report, marked Exhibit O.

JAILS IN THE INDIAN TERRITORY.

This subject has received much thought and consideration by the Department, and it is believed that the best arrangements possible under the circumstances have been effected. Buildings for use as jails have been secured by renting, the only feasible plan heretofore open to the Government.

In many cases the character of buildings has not been all that could be desired, but at some points jails have been specially built which are well adapted to the purpose. At present eleven jails are rented in the Territory, at an aggregate annual rental of $6,970.

An appropriation of $60,000 was made at the last session of Congress for the erection of three United States jails in the Territory. From estimates already made, I am satisfied that this amount is not sufficient for the purpose, and the sum originally submitted, namely, $100,000, will be required to erect suitable and commodious jails. It is earnestly hoped that the additional appropriation will be made for this purpose.

Under the provisions of law directing the Attorney-General to fix the locations of these jails, I have designated Muscogee, South McAlester, and Ardmore, in the northern, central, and southern districts, respectively, as the points at which they shall be erected.

SITE FOR A UNITED STATES PRISON, SOUTH.

At the last session of Congress an appropriation of $15,000 was made—to enable the Attorney-General and Secretary of the Interior to have prepared plans, specifications, and estimates, and for expenses connected with the selection of a prison site south of the thirty-ninth degree of north latitude and east of the Rocky Mountains, under the provisions of the "act for the erection of United States prisons and for the imprisonment of United States prisoners, and for other purposes," approved March 3, 1891, to be immediately available, etc.

After due consideration, Atlanta, Ga., has been fixed upon as the place at which the prison contemplated in this provision shall be erected; but, beyond selecting the location, no action has been taken under the appropriation and no expenses have been incurred.

It is understood that suitable and ample grounds for a prison site will be donated to the Government, and it is the intention to effect the requisite preliminary arrangements with regard to the precise location as soon as possible, in order that the preparation of the plans and other necessary measures looking to the final erection of the prison buildings may be proceeded with as contemplated in the act.

REFORM SCHOOL, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The report of the board of trustees of the Reform School of the District of Columbia (Exhibit M), shows that at the beginning of the last fiscal year there were in the school 224 boys; there were received during the year 130, a total of 354 as against 344 for the previous year. Ninety of those received were committed by the police court and 13 by the supreme court of the District of Columbia, 16 by courts outside of the District, and 11 by the president of the board of trustees.

There were discharged during the year 85 by order of the trustees, 12 by expiration of sentence (United States courts), 2 by order of court (change of sentence), 1 by transfer to the insane asylum, 1 by pardon of the President of the United States, and 4 escaped and are still absent, leaving in the school June 30, 1898, 249. There were no deaths during the year, and the general health of the inmates has been and is good.

The figures given show how the population of this school has increased. Quite recently it became necessary to notify the courts that no more boys could then be received for want of room. A new family building should be provided for at once, and I recommend that Congress appropriate the amount necessary to erect it, and also to erect an assembly hall. The need for both of these is apparent without lengthy argument. The assembly hall has already received the indorsement of the joint committee of Congress appointed to investigate the charities and reformatory institutions in the District of Columbia.

I also repeat the recommendation made in former reports that Congress should take action upon the suggestion of the board of trustees, that it be given such control of the boys after discharge as will enable it to reclaim and return to the school any boy whose subsequent conduct is bad.

The joint committee above mentioned, after saying in its report that "the general management of the institution is in the Department of Justice, although it is supported by appropriations made in the District appropriation bill," makes the gratifying statement that "the school is in so excellent a condition, and so ably managed with such good results, that the committee deem that it would be unwise to make any change whatever in its control; further than that, if the general system of organization shall be adopted, the school should have whatever advantages may arise from being a part of the general system," and further on calls attention to the fact that "the Reform School for Boys has been able to control its inmates without duress or any form of confinement." All of this I heartily indorse, and think it worthy the consideration of Congress in making appropriations for this institution.

REFORM SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

The report of the president of the board of trustees (Exhibit N) shows the condition of the school at the close of the last fiscal year. During the year under review there were on an average 27 girls in the school. Fourteen girls were committed to the institution and one previously bound out was returned. Nineteen girls have been released, some to their parents, and others as apprentices in families in the District and elsewhere.

The recommendations as to reduction of the age limit of admission to and dismissal from the school, or the committal of that question in individual cases to the discretion of the trustees, and as to appropriations, and the portions of the report relating to the use of the institution for white girls as well as colored girls of the defective and incorrigible classes, and to the proposals regarding the new building, are committed to the attention of Congress with particular approval.

Attention is invited, as heretofore, to that portion of the report which relates to the treasurer of the school and to the method of appropriation by which in the past it has been necessary to ask for a deficiency appropriation to provide for the salary of that official previously earned. The recommendation of the trustees, that the sum of $600 be appropriated for the treasurer's salary for the fiscal year 1899-1900, to be available in monthly payments from the beginning of the year, and of $300 to make up that amount for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, receives my approval.

The suggestions of the report touching the status of the school as a reformatory rather than a charitable institution, and of the propriety of the ultimate control of and responsibility for it, as in the case of the Reform School for Boys, being lodged in the Attorney-General rather than in the Commissioners of the District, are especially called to your attention.

Statistics concerning the institution since it was organized will be found in the exhibits accompanying the trustees' report. For further information regarding the history of the school and legislation affecting it reference is made to my reports for the years 1894 and 1896, and to the reports of the board of trustees thereto appended. I am clearly of the opinion that with proper provision for the needs of the school and with careful management it may be so developed as to become a strong and valuable agency in the governmental schemes of reform for criminals and defectives; and I am of the opinion that it is advancing on these lines and deserves support.

NOTARIES PUBLIC—DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Exhibit Y gives the names of the notaries public now in commission for the District of Columbia, with the dates of their appointments. It is found that persons holding commissions as notaries for the District frequently leave the city, or become otherwise disqualified, without notice to the Department of Justice, leaving their names to be carried on the records and the Department in ignorance of their discontinuance as such officials.

To obviate this I have adopted the rule of calling each year upon the notaries of the District for a report of the amount of business done by them during the preceding year, and for other data that will enable the Department to keep a more accurate list of the notaries in actual service.

REVISION OF CRIMINAL AND PENAL LAWS.

The commission having in charge the revision and codification of the criminal and penal laws of the United States have been engaged in the discharge of their duties, and have made gratifying progress. They have prepared a revision and codification of the laws of Oregon, with such changes as were deemed necessary to adapt them to the Territory of Alaska. A criminal code and code of criminal procedure for the Territory has also been prepared by the commission and heretofore reported by the Attorney-General to Congress. These codes are now embraced in a bill pending in Congress, and it is very desirable that the same should be passed at as early a date as practicable.

The commission is also engaged in the preparation of a civil code and code of civil procedure for the district of Alaska, which I hope to be able to lay before Congress at an early day.

The commission have also prepared a code to define and punish crimes and offenses committed within any fort, arsenal, dockyard, magazine, or any other place or district under the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States, or upon the high seas, or in any arm of the sea, or in any river, haven, creek, basin, or bay within the admiralty and maritime jurisdiction of the United States and out of the jurisdiction of any particular State. This latter code has been printed and distributed to the various United States judges and district attorneys, for the purpose of examination and suggestion as to any alterations or corrections that ought to be made therein.

The attention of Congress is called to the suggestion made by the commissioners in their report, that it would seem to be inadvisable and impracticable to revise and codify laws purely penal, which are connected by the context with statutory provisions scattered throughout the statutes, without destroying the orderly arrangement of the laws by heads and topics. I respectfully suggest that consideration be given to the question as to whether or not Congress ought not to limit the scope of the work confided to the commission to such penal statutes as can be codified without the necessity of severance from a context, which is necessary to a correct and proper arrangement of the statutes and a proper understanding of the relation between the penalty imposed and the law which the penalty is intended to enforce.

EXHIBIT 2.—Report of the Assistant Attorney-General in charge of the business of the Department of Justice in the Court of Claims.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, D. C., November 1, 1898.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following report for the year ending October 31, 1898, of business pertaining to matters within my official charge:

BUSINESS OF THE COURT OF CLAIMS.

GENERAL JURISDICTION CASES.

Since my last report there have been filed 247 cases, claiming about $963,450. The total number of cases pending, exclusive of those known as "letter-carrier cases,"—to which reference is hereinafter made,—is 2,144. The amount involved is very large, but can not be accurately given.

During the year 150 cases, exclusive of suits of letter carriers, were disposed of, the amount claimed being about $4,766,804.11. In 74 of them, claiming upward of $3,482,378.89, judgments of dismissal were secured. In 76 cases, claiming $1,284,425.22, judgments were for claimants for $500,257.61.

In addition to the above, an interlocutory decree was entered in an Indian case brought under certain treaty provisions, in favor of numerous orphan claimants, for $10,506.93.

CONGRESSIONAL CASES.

Under the acts of March 3, 1883, c. 116 (1 Supp. R. S., 403), and March 3, 1887, c. 359 (1 Supp. R. S., 559), authorizing the reference to the Court of Claims of certain claims pending before Congress or any of its committees, or any Executive Department, for an advisory finding of facts, there have been transmitted to the court since the last report 270 cases, claiming upward of $1,030,977.80.

The total number of cases so transmitted to date is 9,871, of which there are now pending 6,824 cases.

Number disposed of.—During the year 243 cases, claiming $2,631,767.83, were acted on by the court and have been or will be reported to Congress. Of this number 133 cases, claiming $250,179.34, were dismissed because claimants or those they represented were disloyal, or for other causes. In 21 cases, claiming $1,085,278.02, findings on the merits favorable to the United States were filed by the court, and in 89 cases, claiming $1,296,310.47, findings favorable to the claimants were filed for $404,439.17.

DEPARTMENTAL CASES.

Under the act of March 3, 1883, c. 116 (1 Supp. R. S., 403), there have been referred by the Executive Departments to date 52 cases in which the court is asked to pass upon certain disputed questions of law or of fact. During the year one of these cases, transmitted by the Secretary of the Treasury, was acted upon by the court, the opinion filed being favorable to the claimant.

There are now pending 13 cases.

CLAIMS AGAINST THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

These suits are brought under the acts of June 16, 1880, and February 13, 1895. But 19 of these cases remain undisposed of, and these are either prepared and ready for trial or are in the hands of referees for statement of account. It is expected that this entire business will be closed at the ensuing term of the court.

FRENCH SPOILIATIONS.

Since the last report nothing requiring special mention has been done under this jurisdiction. The court and counsel for claimants are alike awaiting action of Congress with reference to the payment of the judgments already rendered, before proceeding with the trial of further cases.

SUITS PENDING AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT IN THE CIRCUIT AND DISTRICT COURTS OF THE UNITED STATES.

The suits in this jurisdiction are brought under the provisions of the act of March 3, 1887, entitled "An act to provide for the bringing of suits against the Government of the United States." (1 Supp. R. S., 559.)

During the year 52 suits were brought in the various circuit and district courts throughout the United States, the amount claimed being $52,252.53. The matters involved in these various suits may be tabulated as follows:

Fees as United States attorney	3
Fees as United States commissioner	5
Fees as United States marshal and deputy	11
Fees as clerk	5
Overtime as letter carriers, etc	8
Work on public buildings	2
For amount of lost drafts	4
For drawback	2
Miscellaneous matters	12

Of these suits, 20 went to judgment in the circuit and district courts, 10 being dismissed and 10 decided in favor of the claimants. In the circuit courts of appeals 5 appeals of the United States were decided, in 3 of which the judgments appealed from were affirmed, and in 2 reversed in part. Of the former, 2 have been taken to the Supreme Court of the United States. The United States has dismissed within the year 4 appeals heretofore taken to the Supreme Court.

Since this jurisdiction was created 1,330 suits have been brought against the United States, of which 149 are pending in the circuit and districts courts, 28 in the various circuit courts of appeals, and 2 in the Supreme Court of the United States.

Important legislation affecting the jurisdictional statute was enacted at the last session of Congress. By the acts of June 27, 1898, and July 1, 1898, the right of Government officers to bring suits in the circuit and district courts for their fees or salaries was repealed, thus removing what had been found to be a serious difficulty in the workings of the act of March 3, 1887. As the statute was originally enacted, court officers were enabled to bring suits in the courts which had appointed them and by which, as a rule, the accounts upon which suit was brought had been approved. Since the legislation referred to, these actions must be brought in the Court of Claims—a tribunal in which these conditions do not obtain. Moreover, since the evidence in such actions is found almost exclusively in the files of the various Departments of the Government, they can be tried in the Court of Claims with greater convenience to both parties.

APPEALS IN SUPREME COURT.

There have been 19 appeals from the judgments of the Court of Claims determined in the Supreme Court within the year. The United States was appellant in 13 of these cases, and the decision of the Supreme Court was favorable to the appellant in 4 of the same and adverse in 4, while 4 were dismissed on motion of the United States, and 1 by stipulation. Of the 6 appeals in which the United States was appellee the Supreme Court decided 5 in favor of, and 1 adversely to, the United States.

There are 24 appeals from the Court of Claims now pending in the Supreme Court, of which 3 have been argued and submitted to the court.

CLASSES SPECIALLY MENTIONED.

The following classes of cases merit special consideration by reason of their present or threatened magnitude or number, or by reason of the importance of the questions involved:

LETTER-CARRIER CASES.

These suits are brought to recover compensation for time employed in excess of eight hours per day, under the act of May 24, 1888 (1 Supp. R. S., 587). The number of individual cases that have been brought under this act is, approximately, 19,000.

The method heretofore pursued for the settlement of these claims has been continued.

During the year judgments were rendered in 214 suits, comprising 3,400 individual cases, and based on reports from 165 cities, the amount claimed being about $900,000. The judgments were for $336,001.75, or about 37 per cent of the amount claimed. There are 97 reports of commissioners, covering 400 cases, still awaiting action. The estimated number of cases pending is 1,800.

It has been customary heretofore to include these suits in the statement of the cases of general jurisdiction, but I have thought it better not to do so in this report for the reason that the judgments in them are entered without litigation, practically by stipulation, being based upon reports made by commissioners of the court.

REBATE OF TAX ON ALCOHOL USED IN THE ARTS, ETC.

These suits are brought under section 61 of the tariff act of 1894, providing that manufacturers using alcohol in the arts or in any medicinal or like compound, under regulations to be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, should, on furnishing certain proof, receive a rebate or repayment of the internal-revenue tax paid on such alcohol. In this class of cases there are now pending about 1,154, the amount involved being about $4,100,000.

A test case to determine the question of liability of the Government in this class of cases was submitted to the Court of Claims early during the present year, and a decision rendered in favor of the United States. This case is now pending in the Supreme Court, on appeal of the claimant, and is advanced for a hearing during the present month.

LA ABRA AND WEIL CASES.

The La Abra Case is pending in the Supreme Court and will be submitted during the present month. The trial, which was set for the last term, was postponed, owing to the prolonged illness of one of respondent's counsel.

The Weil Case will doubtless be submitted to the Court of Claims during the coming term of court.

GENERAL REMARKS.

I recommend amendment of the act of March 3, 1891, c. 517 (1 Supp. R. S., 901), so as to give to the United States the same right of appeal to the Supreme Court from judgments of the circuit courts of appeals, in actions originating in the circuit and district courts, that it has in similar cases brought in the Court of Claims. At present, owing to what seems to me to be inadvertent legislation, the rights of the United States in this respect are not the same in the courts named.

I also recommend such legislation by Congress as will provide for the more thorough and stringent enforcement of the subpoenas issued by the Court of Claims.

Very respectfully,

LOUIS A. PRADT,
Assistant Attorney-General.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

EXHIBIT 3.—Report of the Assistant Attorney-General in charge of Indian depredation cases.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, D. C.. November 15, 1898.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
Washington, D. C.

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith my annual report of the business of the Department relating to the defense of Indian depredation claims in the Court of Claims.

The following exhibit shows in tabulated form the results of the work since the jurisdiction in these cases was conferred upon the Court of Claims and the progress made during the year beginning November 1, 1897:

Total number of cases filed.....	10,841
Amount claimed.....	$43,515,867.06
Cases reduced to judgment.....	1,593
Amount claimed.....	$6,974,053.95
Judgments in favor of claimants.....	871
Amount claimed.....	$3,255,104.36
Amount of judgments in favor of claimants.....	$1,633,832.61
Judgments in favor of defendants.....	722
Amount claimed.....	$3,718,949.59
Judgments for claimants from November 1, 1897, to November 1, 1898.....	190
Amount claimed.....	$676,823.25
Amount of judgments for claimants.....	$259,121.90
Judgments for defendants from November 1, 1897, to November 1, 1898.....	162
Amount claimed.....	$866,347.47
Number of cases in which depositions have been taken (reported) from November 1, 1897, to November 1, 1898.....	1,048

Of these, the depositions in 60 cases were for the defendants and in 988 for the claimants.

An examination of the figures shows that the total amount claimed in all the cases tried during the past year was in the neighborhood of $1,500,000, while the judgments rendered in favor of the claimants and against the United States and defendant Indian tribes aggregated about $250,000, or one-sixth of the total amount claimed in all cases tried. This showing is relatively less favorable for the Government than might have been made, owing to the fact that the cases tried are in nearly all instances those which are offered for trial by the claimants. While there are cases unheard in which the claimants are ready for trial, it has been deemed fair to give attention to those cases in the order in which they are presented and to defer the consideration of other cases until a time when the demands upon the office from this source shall be less urgent. Another factor tending to minimize the amount of the judgments in favor of the defendants is the natural disposition on the part of the claimants to postpone trial in cases where, when the taking of evidence is completed and the briefs filed, it is probable that the defense will prevail. Many cases of this character, aggregating in the amount claimed probably $500,000, are ready for trial.

Reference was made in my last annual report to the case of Kemp v. The United States and the Comanche Indians, then pending on appeal in the Supreme Court. This involved the question whether an Indian tribe could be held liable for the commission of a depredation by an individual member of the tribe when the claimant had failed to make application to the agent of the tribe and have a demand made upon the tribe for the surrender of the wrongdoer or for other satisfaction, as provided by the treaties and statutes in force at the time when the depredation was committed.

Many of the treaties between the different tribes of Indians and the United States provided that—

If bad men among the Indians shall commit a wrong or depredation upon the person or property of anyone, white, black, or Indians, subject to the authority of the United States and at peace therewith, the tribes herein named solemnly agree that they will, on proof made to their agent and notice by him, deliver up the wrongdoer to the United States to be tried and punished according to its laws, and in case they willfully refuse so to do, the person injured shall be reimbursed for his loss from the annuities or other moneys due or to become due to them under this or other treaties made with the United States.

The statutes that have been passed from time to time creating a liability against the Indian tribes and the Government on account of depredations by Indians provide, in substance, that where property belonging to any citizen or inhabitant of the United States is taken by Indians, such citizen or inhabitant, his representative, attorney, or agent, may make application to the proper superintendent, agent, or subagent, who, upon being furnished with the necessary documents and proofs, shall, under the direction of the President, make application to the nation or tribe to which said Indian or Indians shall belong for satisfaction, and if such nation or tribe shall neglect or refuse to make satisfaction in a reasonable time, not exceeding twelve months, it shall be the duty of such superintendent, or agent, or subagent, to make return of his doings to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, that such further steps may be taken as shall be proper, in the opinion of the President, to obtain satisfaction for the injury.

Under these provisions of the statute and the treaty it was contended by the defendants (the United States and the Comanche Indians) that unless the claimant had made the application to the agent of the Indians, and the agent had made application to the Indian tribe whose members committed the depredation for satisfaction, the claimant could not recover.

The property stolen was not stolen by the Indian tribe, but by individuals of the tribe without the authority of the tribe, and at a place outside of the Indian reservation, where the Indian tribe owed no protection to any one. For that reason, I was of the opinion, and am still of that opinion, that it was but equitable and just that the tribe should be notified of the commission of the offense and have an opportunity to investigate it, and an opportunity to make reparation for the offense if it found, upon investigation, that members of that tribe committed it, before the tribal funds in which innocent members of the tribe had an interest should be taken to pay for the wrongful act of the unauthorized individuals who committed the wrong.

This question was presented to the Court of Claims during the year 1897, and that court made two decisions upon the question. In its first decision it held that under the terms of the treaty the Indian tribe was entitled to demand, as a condition precedent to tribal liability, and the demand not having been made in that case, the Court of Claims held that the claimant could not recover. A month later, in the same case, upon a motion for a new trial, the Court of Claims reversed itself in its first decision, and held that the demand required by the terms of the treaty was not necessary and that the claimant could recover. The case of Kemp v. The United States was then appealed to the Supreme Court, was advanced for hearing, and was argued in that court in December, 1897, and in January, 1898, the Supreme Court affirmed the last decision of the Court of Claims by an equally divided court. A motion for a rehearing was filed by the United States in that case and was overruled by the court. In 1898 I appealed the case of Samuel W. Hood v. The United States and Comanche Indians to the Supreme Court of the United States. This case involved the same question as the case of Kemp v. The United States, but the record presented the question more positively. The case was advanced for hearing, and was argued in that court October 24, 1898. On November 14, 1898, the Supreme Court again affirmed the decision of the Court of Claims by an equally divided court, there being eight justices participating in the hearing of the case, Mr. Justice McKenna not sitting.

The decision of this question affects a great many cases for Indian depredations now pending in the Court of Claims; just how many it has been impossible to tell. The amount involved in this controversy, however, will probably reach $10,000,000, and possibly much more.

It seems unfortunate that Congress so worded the act of 1891 that on this question the Court of Claims could unanimously decide one way and unanimously the opposite way, and that the Supreme Court could be equally and unchangeably divided. It may be that justice requires further legislation to determine, so far at least as future adjudications are concerned, the intent of Congress which the courts seem to have found so obscure.

Gratifying progress has been made in the preparation of cases for trial. Heretofore the assistant attorneys have necessarily devoted much of their time to presenting to the courts the numerous questions of law that have arisen under the statute and treaties in order that those questions might be settled. For this reason the work of preparing the cases for trial has necessarily been very considerably in arrears. When the Court of Claims convened in October, 1897, the briefing of cases was in arrears about two years. In October, 1898, the work of preparing cases for trial was in arrears but four months; and the work is now so far advanced that it is possible in most cases where a claimant is ready for trial at the beginning of the term to bring the case to trial during that term. It is hoped that hereafter very little delay will be experienced in adjudicating meritorious claims.

The testimony in these cases is taken in the counties of claimants' residences and involves a very considerable amount of travel and labor on the part of the regular and special attorneys who are engaged in field work. The large number of cases, the fact that the witnesses are scattered over a vast extent of territory, and the difficulty in securing their attendance has made progress in this direction comparatively slow; yet depositions have been taken during the past year in upward of a thousand cases, as compared with less than four hundred cases during the preceding year, and in probably an equal number of cases the attorneys representing the Government have attended for the purpose of taking testimony after due notice given, only to find that the claimants and their witnesses had failed to attend.

The clearing away of the questions of construction and the gradual completion of the work of judicially determining the status of the various classes of claims has, as predicted in my last annual report, opened the way for more rapid progress in the adjudication of meritorious cases on the evidence, and the judgments in favor of claimants will probably aggregate an even larger amount during the coming term of court.

Respectfully,

JOHN G. THOMPSON,
Assistant Attorney-General.

EXHIBIT 4.—Report of the United States attorney for the Court of Private Land Claims.

SANTA FE, N. MEX., October 6, 1898.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
Washington, D. C.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following annual report as to the business transacted by the Court of Private Land Claims from October 5, 1897, up to and including October 5, 1898:

During the period just referred to, three terms of court have been held at Santa Fe, a large number of cases have been finally disposed of, and very marked progress has been made toward a completion of the trial of causes on the dockets of the court. I have attempted in the schedules hereto attached, numbered, respectively, 1 to 9, not only to set forth the business transacted, but also to outline the status of the cases remaining for further consideration by the court.

Statements numbered 1 to 5 (both inclusive) pertain to business in the New Mexico district; the remaining statements refer to the Arizona business.

From statement No. 1 it will be seen that in the New Mexico district, wherein grants located in New Mexico and Colorado are tried, the court has, during the past year, decided 57 cases, involving 52 grants. Among the cases disposed of is the Vigil and St. Vrain or Las Animas grant, in Colorado, with an area of 4,096,346 acres. This case was dismissed by the court for want of jurisdiction, the court holding the grant to be one the right to which has "hitherto been lawfully acted upon and decided by Congress," and therefore, under subsection 4 of section 13 of the act of March 3, 1891, not within the jurisdiction of the Court of Private Land Claims. The action of Congress held to be a bar in this case was the confirmation of this claim to the extent of 22 square leagues, by act approved June 21, 1860 (U. S. Stat. L., vol. 12, p. 71). It will be noted that the total area claimed in the 52 grants disposed of is 5,556,694 acres. Of this amount there have been rejected claims to the amount of 5,549,294 acres, and confirmed 7,400 acres.

The percentage of confirmation has thus been a little over one-tenth of 1 per cent. The great disparity between the amount claimed and the amount confirmed is to a very large extent ascribable to the extravagance of many of the claims presented.

The importance of the decisions of the Supreme Court on cases heretofore appealed from the Court of Private Land Claims, as applicable to the cases remaining for trial, was pointed out in my last annual report to your office. The principles announced in the case of Sandoval v. United States (167 U. S., 278), and more recently in the case of Hayes v. United States (170 U. S., 643), have been applied by the court to the cases since that time coming up for trial, and the small area confirmed, as above set forth, is also in part ascribable to the far-reaching effect of these and other decisions by the court of last resort on appeals from the Court of Private Land Claims.

Schedule 2 shows 6 cases decided by the court other than those above referred to. These cases are not included in schedule 1 for the reason that they have been embodied in previous annual reports, and the action taken upon them during the period covered by this report has been simply to increase or diminish the acreage confirmed, as heretofore reported. In the José Garcia case, No. 92, which is noticed in schedule as having been rejected in toto by the court, a most important principle as affecting other cases yet for trial was announced by the court.

In this case the proof tendered to support the grant consisted of recitals in certain adjacent grants as to "the grant of José Garcia." In considering the effect of this proof the court holds that the claimants must prove not only that their predecessors in interest had a grant, but also the character of the grant; that until this is done, the court can not know whether it is of the class of titles cognizable under the act of March 3, 1891, and that until such proof is furnished a confirmation can not be secured. In this case the court fully recognizes the contention which the Government has insisted upon from the very inception of this litigation, that the jurisdiction of the court is a limited one, and that until claimants, by full legal proof, bring themselves clearly within the jurisdictional limits imposed by law, there can be no confirmation. In other words, the court has no power to presume a grant or its character; claimants must prove first that they have a grant, and second, that they have one of the character confided to the Court of Private Land Claims by the act of March 3, 1891.

During the past year the importance of surveys made under decrees of confirmation by this court has not been overlooked by this office. Each survey returned under section 10 of the act creating this court has been carefully examined by a special agent of the Department of Justice assigned to this office, and in all cases where the interests of the Government have so demanded, objections have been filed by the United States. I am pleased to report that in each instance where these objections have been insisted upon by the Government before the court they have been sustained. Four surveys have been approved containing an acreage of 83,936.11 acres (schedule 3), and three grants have been ordered resurveyed (schedule 4). It has been my purpose to dispose of these surveys promptly upon their return from the General Land Office to the clerk of the court, and in no instance has their approval been held up upon objections by the Government beyond such time as has been necessary for their investigation. As a result of this policy there are no surveys at the date of this report pending for action by the court. As will be seen, however, from schedule 5, hereinafter discussed, there are a large number of grants in which decrees have been certified as final pending in the Department of the Interior for survey. The length of time which it will take the Court of Private Land Claims to dispose of this branch of its business will depend entirely upon the expedition with which decrees of confirmation are executed into surveys by the General Land Office. It shall certainly be the purpose of this office, in the future as in the past, to secure action upon such surveys promptly upon their return to the court.

Under schedule 5 I have endeavored to define the status of each case not finally disposed of in the New Mexico district. As all grants confirmed by the court must come back to the court for further action, either on survey or on mandate of the Supreme Court in case of appeal, I have described the first class of cases under that schedule as "Pending for primary determination," these being cases which have either not been tried or have been only partially tried; of these there are 22. Twelve of these are for grants having an estimated area of 4,456,746 acres. The description in the remaining 10 grants are so indefinite as to make an estimate of area impossible. Most of these latter, however, seem to be small grants, so that the total area included in these 22 untried grants in the New Mexico district is probably about 5,000,000 acres. From the next subdivision of this schedule it will be noted that there are 5 grants, with an area of 72,511 acres, fully tried and under advisement by the court. There are also (Subschedule C) 5 grants, with an aggregate area of 651,000 acres, pending on motions for rehearing. In Subschedule D are shown the grants in which surveys are being made or which are awaiting survey; these are 29 in number, with an estimated aggregate area of 789,523.15 acres.

The grants pending on appeal (Subschedule E) are 17 in number, with an estimated area claimed of 597,679 acres. Subschedule F shows 7 grants with an area of 74,343 acres, which have been confirmed, but in which the confirmation has not become final, either because the decree has been withheld on account of a question involved in some other pending case or because, though decree has been entered, the time for appeal has not yet run, or for similar reason. Recapitulating under schedule 5 there are therefore yet pending in the New Mexico district, either for trial, under advisement, for survey, on appeal, on motion for rehearing, or because confirmation is not yet final, 85 cases involving an aggregate area of 7,185,056 acres. It is believed that this represents the total volume of business that will engage the Court of Private Land Claims in this department of its labors. While under section 8 of the act establishing the court, parties having perfect grants seem to be permitted to file them at any time during the life of the court, no one has taken advantage of this provision of the act since the date of my last report, and it is improbable that any further claims will be filed.

No term of court has been held in Arizona since the date of my last report. This has been due to the fact that the Arizona cases on appeal in the Supreme Court, and which were considered decisive of the remaining business on that docket, were not reached in the Supreme Court until the early part of the present year and were not decided until May, 1898. These cases were Camou v. United States, Perrin v. United States, United States v. Maish & Driscoll, Faxon v. United States, Ely's Administrator v. United States (171 U. S., pp. 277, 292, 242, 244, 220), and United States v. Coe (170 U. S., 693). The decisions in these cases have done much to clear up the issues of law between the Government and the claimants. In most of these appeals, however, the cases were remanded for further proceedings by the Court of Private Land Claims, and it is believed that there will be very serious controversies of fact between the parties on these further hearings. The result is that the Arizona docket must practically be tried de novo, the only issues eliminated being those of law settled by the decisions above referred to. It is the expectation of the court to hold a session in Arizona during the coming winter, and it shall be my purpose to secure as complete a disposition of the docket at that term as possible.

Statements 6 to 9, hereto annexed, set forth in detail the condition of the Arizona docket. From statement 6 it will be seen that 12 Arizona cases, involving 10 grants with an acreage of 510,448.73 acres, have been tried by the Court of Private Land Claims during its existence. Of these the court confirmed 2, with an acreage of 68,388.52; rejected 7, with an acreage of 421,659.61, and has 1, with an acreage of 20,400.60, under advisement.

Statement 7 shows that there are pending on the Arizona docket, and yet untried, 7 cases, with an aggregate area claimed of 242,269.06 acres.

Statement 8 relates to a portion of the cases referred to in statement 6 above, and shows the disposition made by the Supreme Court on appeals taken in these cases. From this statement it will be noticed that the Supreme Court, while reversing the decrees of rejection entered by the Court of Private Land Claims in these cases, and while seemingly holding them to be entitled to confirmation, limits any confirmation entered to 77,007.71 acres as against 206,878.51 claimed.

Statement 9 relates also to 2 cases referred to in statement 6 above and which have been rejected by the Supreme Court on appeal and are pending in that court on motion for rehearing. The area involved in these 2 cases is 94,939.02 acres.

Recapitulating, it appears from these schedules that the total area confirmed in the Arizona district by the decisions of the Court of Private Land Claims, as modified by the decisions of the Supreme Court is, at most, 77,007.71 acres, while the total area rejected in that district, by the decisions of the Court of Private Land Claims, as thus far modified by the Supreme Court, is 490,048.13 acres.

Before closing this report I can not refrain from a special commendation of Mr. William H. Pope, special assistant to the Attorney-General in the preparation and trial of cases before the Court of Private Land Claims, assigned to my office as assistant attorney, and it becomes my duty, as well as my pleasure, to acknowledge and appreciate the zeal, energy, ability, and efficiency which he has all along so conscientiously displayed in the performance of the duties devolving upon him in that capacity. Because of the increased business transacted by the court during this last year and the large number of cases tried and disposed of by it during that time, the preparation and defense of which, as a matter of course and duty, had to be undertaken by this office, much of the detail work has fallen upon Mr. Pope, and the trial of many of these cases has been conducted by him alone with most magnificent success and in such a manner as to wholly justify the confidence reposed in him by the Attorney General and myself. Without his aid the accomplishment of the vast results to the Government, set forth in this report, would have been impossible by the United States attorney for the Court of Private Land Claims.

It is desired also to heartily commend the painstaking efforts and technical ability of the other employees in this office, Mr. Will M. Tipton, special agent and expert; Mr. Henry O. Flipper, special agent of the Department of Justice, and Mr. Sharrard Coleman, special agent and examiner of surveys, and also Col. Clayton G. Coleman, who has efficiently discharged the duties usually performed by Mr. Sharrard Coleman, the latter being on leave of absence for service as lieutenant in the First Volunteer Cavalry, United States Army.

In conclusion, permit me not only to express my appreciation of the manner in which I have heretofore been sustained by you in the performance of my official duties, but also to indulge the hope that my labors may in the future merit for me a continuance of the confidence which you have hitherto so kindly evidenced.

I have the honor to be, sir, your obedient servant,

MATT. G. REYNOLDS,

United States Attorney for the Court of Private Land Claims.

SCHEDULE NO. 2.—Cases finally disposed of by the court during the year ending October 5, 1898, other than those referred to.

(1) Case No. 58 (Bartolome Baca grant).—This grant was by decree of the Court of Private Land Claims entered September 29, 1894, confirmed to the extent of 11 square leagues or 47,740 acres, and so reported to the Attorney-General in the annual report of this office for the year ending September 30, 1894. Upon appeal, the Supreme Court of the United States, by decision dated October 18, 1897, reversed the case and remanded it to the Court of Private Land Claims, with instructions to dismiss the petition. On January 31, 1898, the Court of Private Land Claims accordingly rejected the claim and dismissed the petition. This effected a restoration to the public domain of 47,740 acres, not heretofore reported.

(2) Case No. 123 (Rio Tesaque or Juan de Benavides grant).—This grant was on March 25, 1897, confirmed by the court to the extent of 1,100 acres, and so reported to the Attorney-General in the annual report of this office for the year ending October 5, 1897. On September 28, 1897, the United States moved for a rehearing, which was granted by the court on February 14, 1898. On February 15, 1898, the court rejected the grant in toto. This restores to the public domain 1,100 acres, not heretofore reported.

(3) Case No. 264 (Bartolome Sanchez).—This grant was on October 2, 1897, confirmed by the court to the extent of 10,000 acres, and so reported to the Attorney-General in the annual report of this office for the year ending October 5, 1897. At the January term, 1898, the court reconsidered the question of boundaries, with the result that on February 16, 1898, the final decree entered in the cause reduced the area confirmed to about 5,000 acres, this making a difference in favor of the United States of 5,000 acres.

(4) Case No. 259 (San Jose Spring grant).—The grant sued for in this case is the same sued for in cases 130 and 182, which was confirmed on September 29, 1894, to the extent of about 10,000 acres. This grant was accordingly dismissed on January 28, 1898, without prejudice to claimant's rights, if any, under the confirmation above mentioned. This finally disposes of a case in which 10,000 acres were claimed.

(5) Case No. 205 (Cañada de Cochiti grant).—This grant was, on September 29, 1894, confirmed to the extent of 5,000 acres, and so reported to the Attorney-General in the annual report of this office for the year ending September 30, 1894. Upon appeal, the Supreme Court of the United States reversed the case as to the west boundary (167 U. S., 529) and remanded the case for further proceedings. On February 16, 1898, a decree was entered fixing the west boundary at a point such that the area of the tract as thus finally confirmed is 15,000 acres, thus making a difference against the Government of 10,000 acres, not heretofore reported.

(6) Case No. 92 (Jose Garcia grant).—This grant was confirmed by the court on May 26, 1897, with boundaries that apparently contained 109 acres. This confirmation is noted in the report to the Attorney-General for the year ending October 5, 1897. A rehearing was granted on application of claimants, and on July 5, 1898, the grant was rejected in toto. This restores to the public domain 109 acres not heretofore reported. The amount originally claimed in this cause was 76,000 acres.

EXHIBIT I.—Report of the Solicitor of the Treasury.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR OF THE TREASURY,
Washington, D. C., November 12, 1898.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith seven tabular statements, exhibiting the amount, character, and results of the litigation under my direction and certain other cases not strictly under the direction of the Solicitor of the Treasury, but docketed in this office, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898, shown by the docket entries of this office.

The tables embrace respectively:

1. Suits on transcripts of accounts of defaulting public officers, excepting those of the Post-Office Department, adjusted by the accounting officers of the Treasury Department.

2. Post-office suits, embracing those against officers of the Post-Office Department, and cases of fines, penalties, and forfeitures for violation of postal laws.

3. Suits on custom-house bonds.

4. Suits for recovery of fines, penalties, and forfeitures under the customs, revenue, and navigation laws.

5. Suits against collectors of customs and other officers or agents of the Government, excepting internal-revenue officers, for refund of duties and acts done in the line of their official duty, including appeals from the decisions of the Board of General Appraisers.

6. Suits in which the United States is a party or is interested, and not embraced in the other classes.

7. A general summary or abstract of all the other tables.

An examination of the tables will show that the whole number of suits commenced within the year was 3,490, of which 7 were of class 1, for the recovery of $55,907.03; 432 were of class 2, for the recovery of $20,591.14; 21 were of class 3, for the recovery of $4,744.84; 133 were of class 4, for the recovery of $56,148.91; 200 were of class 5, and 2,697 were of class 6, for the recovery of $822,633.28.

Of the whole number of suits brought, 2,092 were decided in favor of the United States, 42 were adversely decided, 273 were settled and dismissed, leaving 1,083 still pending.

Of those pending at the commencement of the year, 1,258 were decided for the United States, 352 were adversely decided, and 1,005 were settled and dismissed.

The whole number of suits decided or otherwise disposed of during the year was 5,022; the whole amount for which judgments were obtained, exclusive of decrees in rem, was $76,902,179.97, and the entire amount collected from all sources was $58,631,493.39.

I may here state that of the total amount collected $58,448,223.75 was recovered in the case of United States v. The Union Pacific Railroad Company, being a bill in equity to foreclose the second-mortgage lien of the United States against said company.

The number of cases in which offers of compromise were pending and received during the fiscal year was 140, involving the sum of $290,468.61.

The number of offers accepted was 90, involving the sum of $98,272; amount accepted, $39,136.55.

The number of offers rejected was 29, involving the sum of $108,593.45; amount rejected, $19,926.29.

The number of offers pending at the close of the year was 21, involving the sum of $83,603.16; amount offered, $13,274.44.

The number of letters and communications received by this office during the fiscal year was 8,171; the number of letters, etc., sent out was 5,818; the number of written opinions rendered on questions of law submitted by the Secretary of the Treasury, heads of bureaus of the Treasury Department, and United States attorneys, was 147; the original official bonds, contracts, leases, and deeds received for examination as to their correctness in form and legal sufficiency, and returned, was 1,168; the number of duplicates, triplicates, quadruplicates, etc., which required the same careful examination as the originals, was 1,937; making a total of 3,105 legal instruments examined and returned.

The foregoing represents only to a limited extent the business of this office. The various cases in the charge of the office are entered in dockets which are kept for that purpose, and every step in the progress of each case, from its inception to its close, as well as all data relating thereto, are noted therein.

Constant vigilance and zeal is required upon the part of the individuals having charge of these cases in order to bring them to a successful issue for the Government, for, as a general thing, every power of ingenuity or technicality is employed to defeat the Government in its prosecutions. The statistical statements herewith demonstrate that efforts in this direction upon the part of the office have not been relaxed.

There are frequent consultations with the Solicitor and the officials under him, by the heads of bureaus and chiefs of divisions of the Treasury and other departments, relative to cases pending, investigations made, and verbal opinions given, which require time, care, and research, that can not be tabulated.

By section 3749, United States Revised Statutes, the Solicitor of the Treasury is authorized, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to sell at public sale, after advertisement "for three months," any unproductive lands or other property of the United States in his custody acquired under judicial process or otherwise in the collection of debts.

Property acquired in payment of debts arising under the laws relating to internal revenue, which is by law (sec. 3208, Rev. Stats.) in charge of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, may be sold at public vendue upon "not less than twenty days' notice."

Experience has shown that the time prescribed in section 3749 of the Revised Statutes for advertising is in most cases much longer than is necessary. In these days of easy and quick communication, four weeks' notice of sale would, in my opinion, be ample; but if for any reason a longer notice should be deemed advisable, the law could be so changed that longer notice might be given. I therefore recommend that section 3749 of the Revised Statutes be amended so as to provide for advertising the time, place, and condition of sale for not less than four weeks instead of three months as now provided by law. This would be a saving of expense and would serve as good a purpose as the longer notice.

No real property was acquired during the fiscal year 1898, in the collection of debts due the United States, but the following property, not heretofore reported in the Solicitor's annual report, was acquired on October 20, 1896, from August Schnell, viz: Lots 25 and 26 in block 70 in Calumet and Chicago Canal and Dock Company's subdivision at South Chicago, in sections 5 and 6, T. 37 N., R. 15 E., third principal meridian, Cook County, Ill.

The following real property in charge of this office, acquired April 25, 1896, from C. H. Sturdevant, was sold on July 3, 1897, to Cepter Clark, for $200, viz: West half of 50-acre tract, described by metes and bounds, in Delaware County, Ohio.

In the case of the following property, previously reported as having been acquired by the United States, investigation has shown that the United States acquired no title thereto, viz: S. $\frac{1}{2}$ NE. $\frac{1}{4}$ sec. 19; SE. $\frac{1}{4}$ sec. 19; SW. $\frac{1}{4}$ NW. $\frac{1}{4}$ and part of SW. $\frac{1}{4}$ SW. $\frac{1}{4}$ sec. 20; part NW. $\frac{1}{4}$ sec. 29; N. $\frac{1}{2}$ NE. $\frac{1}{4}$ sec. 30; SE. $\frac{1}{4}$ SE. $\frac{1}{4}$ sec. 30; all in township 11, range 10, in Cherokee County, Ala., and reported acquired March 3, 1891, from J. J. Scroggins. Lot 8 in block 28 in town of Roswell, Chaves County, N. Mex., reported acquired March 30, 1896, from Frank Lesnet. Lots 19 and 20 in block 10 in Matthews's addition to town of Jonesboro, Craighead County, Ark., reported acquired September 21, 1889, from S. P. Leep.

Again I desire to urge a larger appropriation for the library of this Bureau. In my report for 1897 I called attention to the fact that we had reports of 35 States in our library and that only a few of the sets of reports were complete, and I asked that at least $2,000 be appropriated. The amount given was only $300, and I find myself embarrassed now, as I was then, by not having the latest decisions and statutes within reach.

The Solicitor being required to investigate important questions of law and give opinions to officers of the Government, it must be apparent that he should always have at hand the decisions of our courts of last resort. As it is now, he is unable to consult necessary authorities.

This library is also daily visited by comptrollers, auditors, and other officers of the Treasury Department, and is their main reliance in looking up questions of law.

It is hoped that Congress will recognize the importance of having the principal law library in the Treasury building supplied with necessary books. There should be at least $2,000 expended.

From my experience in this Bureau, and that of my predecessor, it is deemed essential to the proper performance of the more professional work that there should be given authority for the employment of additional legal help. There is no accounting done in this Bureau.

The principal business, in addition to giving opinions and advice to the officers of the Government, is to investigate claims of the Government, direct the commencement of proper actions in the courts, and give instructions to United States attorneys in relation to such suits.

By far the greater part of the work must be done by lawyers, and to have it properly done requires the services of men of good legal attainments. There should be in this Bureau a law clerk at a salary of not less than $2,000. I would, therefore, recommend that one of the clerkships of class three be abolished and a law clerkship at $2,000 be authorized in lieu of the same.

Very respectfully,

MAURICE D. O'CONNELL,
Solicitor.

Hon. JOHN W. GRIGGS,
Attorney-General of the United States.

EXHIBIT J.—Report of the librarian.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, D. C., September 21, 1898.

SIR: I respectfully submit the following report upon the library of the Department of Justice for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898:

One of the most important needs of the library, and therefore the one to which chiefly I invite your attention, is that of the want of more space for the library. You are, I am sure, aware of this need, and know of the repeated efforts that have been made to secure relief. A glance through the library will show that the shelves are packed. No longer by shifting the books from one place to another can shelving be found for the necessary and gradual increase of books. The only resort left—and I have already adopted it—is to pile the books at the bottom of the cases where they properly belong. Of course this practice can not continue indefinitely if safety is to be considered. Already an ominous crack extends along the ceiling across the front of the building, indicating that the front is settling away from the rest of the building. It may be asked, "Is there no other place in the building where some of the books can be taken?" I know of none. The basement has been utilized in that way for a few years past, but it is now literally packed. Whether or not Congress will provide a new building for the Department, it would seem that temporary relief must be secured before that can be accomplished, and I therefore respectfully suggest that rooms be rented in some building near the Department, where a portion of the books not in frequent use can be placed. This segregation of the library will of course result in some inconvenience and annoyance.

Considerable attention has been given to the publications of the several Departments of the Government with a view to getting together as nearly complete sets of these books as possible. In attempting their classification and arrangement, an almost insurmountable obstacle is presented in the lack of adequate shelf room. A general arrangement has, however, been effected, so that such books as we have can be found; but they are not catalogued, and it seems useless to go much further with this work and to attempt to complete broken sets when we have no room for regular accumulations. If rooms should be rented, these books might be properly classified, shelved, listed, and requests made upon other Departments to complete the sets as far as possible.

With regard to our appropriation for the purchase of law books, there was a deficiency last year of $198.35. For years the regular appropriation has been $1,500 for law books and $750 for session laws and codes. I have uniformly recommended and endeavored to show the necessity for an appropriation of $2,000 for law books. This need is no less real now than heretofore; but if this sum can not be secured, then I earnestly recommend that the wording of the act be changed so as to permit of wider discretion in the purchase of books, to the end that if it is thought desirable to encroach upon the sum usually allowed for the purchase of session laws, and buy more law books of another character, it may be done. I therefore recommend that the wording of the statutes be changed so as to read, "for law books, including session laws and statutes of the States and Territories for the library of the Department," $2,250.

Very respectfully,

JAMES A. FINCH, Librarian.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

EXHIBIT L.—Report of the warden of the United States Penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.

WARDEN'S OFFICE, UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY,
Fort Leavenworth, Kans., June 30, 1898.

SIR: I have the honor to present herewith the third annual report of this penitentiary, fiscal year ending June 30, 1898, and to call attention to the subjoined reports of the chaplain, surgeon, clerk, and bookkeeper.

In prison June 30, 1898.....	560

The greater part of the year the prison has been crowded. There are but 498 cells, each so small that but one convict can be confined in it.

Our labor being the erection of a new penitentiary $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the present institution accounts, in large measure, for the number of escapes.

Each day the convicts have been formed in columns of fours and marched away across the field and through the woods to labor in the quarries and on the new prison site.

On June 1, 14 convicts escaped at one time, and a full report of the matter was laid before the Department.

The guard has been meager, and outside of the mishap on June 1, I think it has performed its duties faithfully and well.

Were our labors confined within the prison walls a smaller guard force would be ample and escapes would be rare. As it is, the force is too small and the labor of the guard is very arduous. He must rise at 5 a. m. to be ready for duty when the gates open at 6. At 7 a. m. the convicts have had their breakfast and are in line to march to work. It is 6 p. m. before they are again locked in their cells and 7 p. m. by the time the guard has had his supper. This makes fourteen hours' time, twelve hours of which were spent in continuous and active duty.

I state this fully because there have been so many inquiries as to the nature of this work. The applicant accepting the situation must do it with the understanding that the necessities of the case will require of him twelve hours' labor, either day or night, out of each twenty-four.

FINANCIAL.

The appropriation for the fiscal year was $130,712. The amount of cash expended for all purposes and charged to the one item of maintenance was $112,475.54, and the balance turned back into the Treasury was $18,236.46.

The annual per capita cost was $229.33, and the daily per capita cost was 63 cents.

These items of expense can not fairly be compared to like items in the expense of most prisons. Owing to the location and character of our work, the number of guards are out of the usual proportion to the number of convicts.

There are many other items, such as foremen, material for repairs of all kinds, stock for transportation—80 head of it—with all its equipments, etc., that are charged to this item.

The cost is a slight increase over last year. The items of increase were, on subsistence, $2,836.68; clothing, transportation, and donations, $2,523.79; hospital supplies, $83.70; and salaries, $1,273.21.

SUBSISTENCE.

Notwithstanding the fact that noon meals had to be hauled in wagons and fed to the convicts in the fields, at the quarry, on the prison site, wherever they were at work, the cost of subsistence was only a fraction over 10 cents per man per day.

That the food was ample was attested by the fact that no food complaints were made during the year.

The food was well prepared and included wheat and corn bread, tea and coffee with sugar, milk, fresh beef from 600-pound steers, fresh pork, dry salt pork, pork sausage, butterine, potatoes, beans, pease, hominy, rice, cheese, oatmeal with milk, molasses, dry grapes, soups, and large quantities of garden vegetables in their season.

In price and in quantity and quality of food I think few prisons can make a better showing.

DISCIPLINE.

Written discipline records, carefully and accurately kept, show that over 85 per cent of the convicts have lived obedient to discipline. This means that no reports of any kind have been made against them.

Of the disobedient there were all grades, from the desperate to the indolent.

The mixed population in this penitentiary makes an interesting study on the question of discipline. In their order the records show that the most obedient are the Chinamen, followed by the Indian, the Mexican, the negro, and at the foot the white man—most desperate and hardest to govern.

The rule of discipline is firmness and kindness.

HEALTH.

The general health of the prison has been excellent. While the death roll was unusually large, there were but few seriously sick during the year. Of the deaths, one died from gunshot wounds inflicted while he was seeking to escape and refusing to surrender when commanded to do so. The safety of the prison was at stake and the guard fired under justification. Two others who died came to the prison sick and, without recovering, died in a short time. The two things to be specially guarded against are malarial fevers and consumption. I join with the doctor in recommending that water filters be put in and that additional isolation wards be provided.

NEW CELLS.

Congress granted an appropriation of $10,000 for putting in 200 new cells. This work is now in progress. Its completion will change the character of the prison so as to provide room for about 800 inmates. The work will be speedily completed.

STATISTICS.

The statistics are worthy of study. The number of convicts committed during the year was 560. The average age of these men was about 25 years. Of these, 75 per cent could read and write and 25 per cent were totally illiterate. Thirty-two different crimes were represented. Thirty States and Territories were in the nativity list, and in addition there were natives from China, England, Germany, Italy, Mexico, Ireland, and Canada. The native born numbered 537 and the foreign born 23.

The married numbered 40 per cent and the single 60 per cent of the population. This percentage, with slight variation, will be found in most prisons.

Of the population, 380 were white, 97 negroes, 75 Indians, 5 Chinese, and 3 Mexicans.

Finally, over 71 per cent confessed to the use of intoxicating liquor and less than 30 per cent pleaded sober lives. This item points a moral.

THE NEW PRISON.

The work to date in the erection of the new prison has been largely preliminary, and yet the work on the main structure has progressed to excellent effect.

It was a beginning without experience, without tools, without anything, in fact, and with unskilled convict labor with which to begin the gigantic undertaking. The architect will make a detailed report of the labor performed and of its comparative value.

During the year equipments including a tram railway $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles long, with 10 platform cars and connecting quarry and site, have been constructed. Two huge stiff leg derricks, with a hoisting capacity of 7 tons each and a lift of 36 feet, and numerous smaller derricks were constructed. Water was developed on the site by the sinking and walling of a well 25 feet in diameter and 50 feet deep. About 2 acres of earth, 12 feet thick, was stripped from off the quarry and vast quantities of stone quarried for use in the walls.

About 20,000 yards of stone for concrete wall footings were crushed, and 1,700 feet of this footing, 6 feet wide and 30 inches deep, put in. Much stone was dressed and made ready for the wall, and at the close of the year a large section of the wall has been put in.

Enough has been done to give positive assurance that the prison can be erected with this convict labor, which otherwise would be without employment, and the work when done will be on a basis of about 25 per cent of the usual cost to the Government of such construction.

The substructure, up to the water table, will be of stone, and the superstructure will be of press brick.

An average cut of about 12 feet must be made on the east half of the yard campus to bring it to grade.

The site covers about 16 acres. The earth which must be moved has been found to be of excellent clay for making brick and will be used for this purpose. So we shall erect the prison out of material taken from the prison site and grade the site at the same time.

The workmen on all parts of this labor, skilled and unskilled in its character, are white men, negroes, and Indians, coming largely from the Indian Territory, and are without any knowledge of this kind of labor.

It is surprising with what interest and alacrity they take to the work.

The negro and the Indian, side by side, may be seen dressing or laying stone, and doing it successfully.

F. H. Hinds, the overseer of the work, is master of the situation, and has a happy faculty of successfully handling these convict laborers.

The preliminary work is out of the way, and the actual work of erecting the prison structure will now go forward with commendable progress.

THE ULTIMATE POLICY.

Ultimately the Government must determine upon a policy and enact it into law for the care of its convicts. When this prison is completed, it will have capacity for about 1,500 inmates. The mental, moral, and physical well being of these men will have to be looked after. The completion of the prison will leave them without employment. The prison has been so planned as to provide for the education of the mental and moral faculties.

There will be ample grounds for shop room inside the walls. The prison will stand on a reservation of about 1,000 acres, set apart for its use and suitable for farming.

It is then apparent that, with proper legislation, ample opportunities can be had here for instruction, not alone in the mental and the moral but also for handicraft, including agriculture and the mechanics. With shops opened for the purpose of trade, schools, and the farm operated so as to teach successful husbandry, much may be done for the reformation of these young men, and to fit them for thrifty and upright citizenship.

Such a view of the future makes the work in hand encouraging, and points a way for the Federal Government to lead in the suppression of crime and the reformation of the criminal.

CONCLUSION.

The penitentiary has been signally free from bickering and discord of all kinds during the year.

I am under special obligation to J. M. Allen, the efficient deputy warden, who has been with me since the organization of the prison, for his faithful and courteous support.

With rare exceptions all subordinate officers have performed their several duties faithfully and well.

Thanking the Department for the firm and generous manner in which it has aided me in my official duty,

I have the honor to remain, sir, respectfully,

J. W. FRENCH,

Warden, United States Penitentiary.

Hon. JOHN W. GRIGGS,
Attorney-General, Washington, D. C.

CHAPLAIN'S OFFICE, UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY,
Fort Leavenworth, Kans., June 30, 1898.

SIR: I have the honor to present herewith my report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898.

Having had charge of this work only since February of this year, this report will be necessarily brief.

THE SERVICE.

Two services have been held in the chapel each Sabbath. A sermon has usually been given at the morning service, while at the afternoon service a lecture and song service have been combined. The attendance upon all these meetings has been voluntary and generally good. The attention has been excellent and the conduct of the men while in the chapel all that the chaplain could desire. A large choir, selected from the prison population and led by one of their number, leads the congregation in the services of praise. The singing is greatly enjoyed and most inspiring. In addition to this, we have an orchestra, likewise made up of men in prison, which renders valuable aid. The influence of all these services upon the discipline of the prison is beyond estimate.

PERSONAL MENTION.

The Rev. John McCall, parish priest of the Roman Catholic church of Fort Leavenworth, has given an early morning service in the chapel once a month. These services are intended especially for members of the Roman Catholic faith, yet all who wish may attend.

The warden of the prison has frequently addressed the men upon subjects relating to prison discipline and management; also upon questions historical and ethical. He has constantly and cheerfully given assistance to the chaplain in his duties.

The deputy warden has from time to time also spoken to the men in the chapel, and thus in many ways he has greatly aided the good work.

Miss Edith Campion, of Leavenworth, Kans., a devout and cultured young lady, presided at the organ. She has been a faithful and efficient helper in the religious work of the prison.

THE LIBRARY.

The library contains 6,000 carefully selected volumes. A new catalogue was put in a state of preparation by my predecessor, the Rev. Baylus Cade. It is now in the press and will be issued in the near future.

Quite a number of the books are in bad condition and ought to be replaced with new volumes. The prisoners are allowed to get books from the library once a week. Seventy-five per cent, at least, have taken advantage of this privilege. There is also a reading room, which is supplied with papers, magazines, and various periodicals, to which the men have access when not otherwise employed.

THE SCHOOL.

No school as yet has been organized in the prison. Owing to the arrangement of the prison, the men can not be taken into the school-room without first passing into the prison yard, and as we could only have school at night, at which time the guards are withdrawn from the wall, it has been found impracticable by the management of the prison to have a school organized. However, school books are issued for private study to those desiring them. Out of a population of more than 500 prisoners, 381 are making use of these books.

Some who can neither read nor write are eager to learn. If we could open a school, an opportunity could be given this class to gratify their desires.

CONCLUSION.

For the uniform kindness of the warden and deputy warden and other prison officials shown the chaplain during the few months he has been associated with them he desires to express his grateful appreciation.

Very respectfully,

J. F. LEAVITT,
Chaplain, United States Penitentiary.

The WARDEN.

SURGEON'S OFFICE, UNITED STATES PENITENTIARY,
Fort Leavenworth, Kans., June 30, 1898.

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith the following sick and sanitary report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898:

The mortality rate for the past year was much higher than the preceding year. For the year ending June 30, 1897, there were only 3 deaths, while during the past year 6 convicts succumbed to disease and 1 met death by violence.

The increased mortality was due in a large measure to the overcrowded condition of the prison. The isolation building attached to the hospital was used to house general prisoners part of the time and deprived us of facilities to properly isolate tuberculous and contagious diseases.

Last spring 32 convicts had measles and had to be treated in hospital with other diseased men on account of not having quarters to isolate them. During the year there were treated in the hospital 67 cases of malarial remittent fever and 4 cases of malignant typhoid fever, with 2 deaths from typhoid fever. This type of remittent fever simulates typhoid very closely, and in some cases it is difficult to diagnose between them. This fever is caused in many instances by drinking infected water.

In order to reduce the sick rate of this prison and the probability of an epidemic of malignant typhoid fever, I recommend and earnestly request that this penitentiary be supplied with pressure filters of sufficient capacity to supply pure drinking water to all the inmates. I also request that the isolation building now used for general prison use be attached to the hospital and used for no other purpose. I also recommend that on account of the proposed enlargement of the prison, which will bring the mean strength up to about 800, the appropriation for medical, surgical, and hospital supplies, which is now $1,000 per annum, be increased to $2,000.

During the past year 8,374 convicts reported on sick call. Of these 297 were treated in the hospital and 865 were treated in their cells, making a total of 1,162 men relieved from duty on account of sickness and injuries. The remaining 7,212 men reported on sick call were not relieved from duty. They reported for minor ailments or pure malingering. There were 116 cases of accidents and injuries during the past year, including fractures, dislocations, gunshot wounds, burns, scalds, lacerations, contusions, etc. Only one death resulted from injuries, the cause being buckshot wounds entering the abdomen and penetrating the intestines, inflicted while the convict was trying to escape. EXHIBIT M.—Report of the board of trustees of the Reform School, District of Columbia.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 18, 1898.

SIR: In accordance with law, I have the honor to submit the report of the board of trustees of the Reform School of the District of Columbia for the fiscal year 1898.

At the beginning of the fiscal year there were in the school 224 boys; there were received during the year 130, a total of 354 as against 344 for the previous year. Ninety of those received were committed by the police court and 13 by the supreme court of the District of Columbia; 16 by United States courts outside of the District, and 11 by the president of the board of trustees.

There were discharged during the year 85 by order of the trustees, 12 by expiration of sentence (United States courts), 2 by order of court, 1 by transfer to the insane asylum, 1 by pardon of the President of the United States, and 4 escaped and are still absent, leaving in the school June 30, 1898, 249. There were no deaths during the year, and the general health of the inmates was and is good.

The accompanying table shows the estimates of appropriations for the next fiscal year, ending June 30, 1900, which, under the law, have been submitted to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia for insertion in the act making appropriations for the District. The amount appropriated for salaries for the present fiscal year was $16,242. The amount of the present estimate for salaries is $16,452.

Under the laws governing the Reform School, officials and employees, other than those whose salaries are fixed by law, are appointed and their compensation fixed by the board of trustees, subject to the approval of the Attorney-General. The difference between the amount appropriated for the present fiscal year and the amount estimated for the next is due to the fact that Congress failed to appropriate sufficient to pay the salaries as fixed under this law. Six watchmen are authorized, whose salaries have been fixed at \$22.50 per month, a gross amount for the year of \$1,620, while Congress only appropriates \$1,410, an amount which would make the monthly salary \$19.58 $\frac{1}{3}$. The amount estimated as necessary for the support of inmates is the same as was appropriated for the present fiscal year and has been appropriated for a number of years past, although the number of boys has been constantly increasing. From 1884 to 1888 the amount appropriated annually for the support of inmates was \$25,000, the average number of boys being 158. Since 1888 the annual appropriation has been \$26,000, and the number of boys has steadily increased until there were 249 at the close of the fiscal year 1898. The estimate for the construction of an assembly hall at a cost of \$9,750 is the same as was submitted for the year 1898, when the following reasons were given:

The erection of a chapel building, for which an estimate of $9,750 is submitted, is not urged as a necessity, but as being advisable. Religious services are held at the school every Sunday, which of necessity have to be held in the schoolroom of the main building, where, naturally, they do not have the same effect that they would have if held in a building designated for that special use, because of the boys' familiarity with the surroundings through constant week-day association; an additional reason being found in the insufficiency of the schoolroom to accommodate, in addition to the boys, the other persons—employees of the school, of course, and citizens—who attend, the former regularly and the latter frequently in large numbers. Such a building would undoubtedly be of very great service in carrying out the real object of the school.

With the increased number of boys the erection of such a building has become more nearly a necessity, and was so apparent to the joint select committee of Congress appointed to investigate the charities and reformatory institutions in the District of Columbia that in its report, dated March 21, 1898, it said:

The board of trustees has also recommended an appropriation for an assembly hall or chapel structure. There is now an urgent need for such a building, and the board and the committee believe that it should be provided as soon as financial conditions warrant the expenditure.

Under the system upon which the school is run the inmates are divided into families not intended to number over 50 boys, and a separate building is provided for each family. The population of the school on June 30, 1898, was 249, distributed in four family buildings, making an average of between 60 and 70 in each building. As there is a steady increase in the number of inmates the erection of another family building is now a necessity, as the population of the school warrants it, and by the time it can be erected the population will be still larger. Not long ago it became necessary to inform the courts of the District that no more boys could be received at the school for want of room, which, of course, necessitates their being sent elsewhere, perhaps to the jail. There they are in contact with criminals and not under the kind of treatment intended for juvenile petty offenders. An appropriation of $20,000 has been submitted for a new building, being the same amount that was appropriated for the last family building, erected in 1893.

There has been turned into the Treasury to the credit of the United States and the District of Columbia, jointly, the sum of $3,285.74, derived as follows: From the paper-box factory, $2,700; sales from greenhouses, $232.93; sales of surplus farm products, $97.15, and from miscellaneous sources, $255.66.

In last year's report it was stated that—

The board has always been of the opinion that such part of the boys' time as is given to work other than in the schoolroom should be devoted, as far as possible, to receiving instruction in such handicrafts and manual training as would go to make them self-supporting after leaving the school, rather than the performance of such labor on the farm or in the shops as would result merely in the production of a small amount of money to be turned into the Government's Treasury without giving them any useful knowledge.

The Sloyd system of manual training, which the board, acting upon this idea, started in a limited way, has worked so satisfactorily that in order to extend it the building used as a carpenter shop was raised so as to give the use of a basement story underneath it, and the manual-training school moved from the upper story of the bakery building to the main floor of the carpenter shop, thus giving room for an increased number of boys.

The board repeats again what has been said in several of its reports:

Under the present law governing the Reform School, it is provided—

"SEC. 9. That every boy sent to the Reform School shall remain until he is 21 years of age, unless sooner discharged or bound as an apprentice; but no boy shall be retained after the superintendent shall have reported him fully reformed."

Under the system of instruction and of honor badges and promotions adopted by the board, it is possible for a boy to earn his discharge inside of two years, provided he be, so far as the superintendent is able to judge, sufficiently reformed to come within the meaning of the section quoted. When discharged the board has no further control over him. The board has been for years of the opinion that the discharge from the school should be a limited, not an absolute, one; that Congress should be asked to provide by legislation for such control by the board of trustees of the boys after discharge as will enable it to reclaim and return to the school any boy who, by his bad conduct, shows himself amenable to recommitment. As long ago as the first session of the Fiftieth Congress, in 1888, Congress was asked to legislate in this direction, and a bill was favorably reported in the House at that session, but not passed. The board thinks that Congress should, at its next session, be asked to pass a bill giving the board authority over the boys after discharge, and will be glad to have your approval of the matter and some mention of it in your annual report to Congress.

In addition to the ordinary repairs to buildings and the care of personal property and grounds a good deal has been done in the way of permanent improvement during the year. The steam-heating system has been extended to the carpenter and manual-training shops, and the drainage system from these and the main workshop overhauled and improved. Closets with improved ventilation have been placed in the main workshop building and in two of the family buildings. B family building has been painted throughout, together with the floors in the boys' dining room and large school room used for a chapel. A new metal ceiling has been placed in A family schoolroom. Repairs to the roofing on several buildings have been made. Four hundred and fifty panels of picket fence have been rebuilt and other interior fences on the farm repaired. Such repairs as were necessary have been made to the workshop, barn, boilers, boiler house, pumping apparatus, green-houses, etc. Sewers have been kept in order and the roadways resurfaced, rolled, and drained. Wherever the services of the boys could be made available they have been employed in all of this work. There are submitted as exhibits to this report the reports of the superintendent, of the attending physician, and of the treasurer of the school, the latter showing in detail the receipts and expenditures during the year.

The board takes pleasure in calling attention to the report of the joint select committee heretofore mentioned, in which, after saying that "the general management of the institution is in the Department of Justice, although it is supported by appropriations made in the District appropriation bill," the committee says: "The school is in so excellent a condition and so ably managed with such good results, that the committee deem that it would be unwise to make any change whatever in its control; further than that, if the general system of organization shall be adopted, the school should have whatever advantages may arise from being a part of the general system." Also to the statement made further on that "The Reform School for Boys has been able to control its inmates without duress or any form of confinement," which is very gratifying in view of the excellent discipline maintained at the school, and the good results from the training given there as shown by the conduct of the boys after their discharge.

Very respectfully,

CECIL CLAY,
President Board of Trustees.

Another school year has passed into history. In the general routine of its work it has differed but little from others of recent date. Speaking for myself, personally, I am satisfied with the record it has made, and believe that much has been accomplished in the present and future interests of those who have been legally subjected to its teachings and discipline.

A larger number of boys has been received than in any former year, and the number discharged proportionately less, thus increasing the total population nearly, if not quite, 10 per cent.

This will clearly suggest the necessity for an increase of room to properly care for this large addition to our numbers within the year. Evidently we are in need of another family building, for which I trust you will be able to secure an appropriation from the present Congress, but not, however, at the possible risk of losing our "assembly hall," for which you have long been striving and which should be considered of first and vital importance.

Our knowledge of the personal history of boys who have received their honorable discharge is not complete, but enough is known to give assurance that a large majority of them are doing well. This is an important part of all reformatory work. Every discharged boy should be carefully guarded and assisted by a special agent of the school. Considering the large number now requiring such aid, the General Government would exercise a wisdom born of charity by granting the means requisite to such an end. Every representative institution of this character under State control has an active and competent person whose time is wholly employed in this kind of missionary work. Why should we be made an exception?

Our schools have been in session continuously except during the hot summer months, and with usual average results. Boys have been advanced from lessons in the alphabet to make creditable recitations in reading, writing, and primary arithmetic within the time possible for them to secure their "honor badge." This, of course, will include only the bright and more ambitious scholars, for it must be told also that many waifs are sent to us weaker in brains even than in morals, and sometimes lamentably deficient in both. Altogether creditable advances have been made in the several family school sessions, and with satisfactory results to the teachers in charge.

Every boy in good health is expected to do his equal share of work daily in any branch of manual labor to which he may be assigned. We find no difficulty in providing useful employment for all. This is equally true if applied to labor on the farm, in the shops, the manual training school, or to the large amount of domestic service required in the several family buildings. As a rule this labor is not remunerative, but none the less important, being requisite to the life and general health of the school. Our paper-box industry continues to furnish employment for the surplus muscle of the smaller boys, and, while it is strictly in the line of "manual training," it is also fairly remunerative in a financial sense.

A number of permanent improvements have been added to those already secured during the past number of years. Much of the labor required to secure these ends has been furnished by the school, and a large proportion of the permanent and ordinary repairs to buildings has been made by the same working force, under the immediate direction of our own carpenter and chief engineer, with an officer of the school in charge when necessary.

The sum of our maximum expenditures has been no larger than for the past number of years, although the average of population has been considerably increased. This, with other favoring conditions, has again reduced by nearly 10 per cent the per capita cost of maintenance during the fiscal year ending June 30. This will be the more readily accepted when it is stated that the increase in population does not materially affect such general expenditures as are incurred for heating, lighting, and repairs to buildings, together with others of less importance, but all tending to produce the same desirable results.

Every effort has been made and no reasonable expense has been spared, under the direction of the school physician, to secure at all times a thoroughly satisfactory sanitary condition of the several buildings and grounds. Dr. Wells still faithfully cares for the physical infirmities of our boys. His visits have been almost daily during the summer months, but no disease of an epidemic form has been prevalent in the school. No deaths have occurred within the present year, and this is the record also for the past four years.

All of the national holidays have been appropriately observed, and always with special reference to a full and free enjoyment of every privilege they are supposed to confer.

All the dining rooms are well supplied with a full quantity of wholesome food, and on special occasions with an extra allowance, which includes a "bill of fare" equal to the average provided for the world at large. Our boys share in every privilege of this kind possible to grant them, and they are also encouraged in their daily recreations as an inducement to accept cheerfully the longer hours assigned to work and study.

I will, doubtless, be pardoned by those at least who have been frequent and observant visitors for many years should special attention be directed to the present appearance and excellent condition of our school buildings and grounds.

As the legal custodian, under your official direction, of these properties, real and personal, I have much pleasure in being able to thus publicly invite attention to the marked advances and improvements you have secured, and all under demands made necessary by the steady increase in our population.

Religious services have been held regularly on Sunday afternoons at the usual hour—3 o'clock. These services scarcely exceed the measure of a single hour and are in no sense denominational or exclusive. All are cordially invited to be present and unite with us in these devotional exercises.

The International Lesson Papers still furnish the texts for a Sunday morning exercise in each of the several family schoolrooms. Many of our boys are good Bible students and quite forward in their knowledge of these Scripture lessons.

Many thanks to ministers of the gospel and others, who have so often and so cheerfully given us their aid in the conduct of these Sunday afternoon services.

The same greetings are hereby extended to other good friends of the school, who have from time to time contributed books, magazines, illustrated papers, etc., to our library and reading room, all of which have been thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed.

But few changes have been made in our official help during the year. With casual exceptions, all have rendered faithful service, while some have been more than equal to every duty their positions imposed. I am under many obligations for valuable assistance in every department of the school work.

To you, gentlemen, members of the board of trustees, I come again, at the close of another fiscal year, begging your acceptance of this brief report.

Permit me to thank you sincerely for your ever-ready and undivided support in all my efforts to serve you.

May the Divine Giver crown with His blessing our every deserving act and effort through the coming year.

Respectfully submitted.

GEORGE A. SHALLENBERGER,
Superintendent.

REPORT OF THE ATTENDING PHYSICIAN.

REFORM SCHOOL, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA,
Washington, D. C., June 30, 1898.

GENTLEMEN: During the past year, although there have been many minor ailments, we have been so fortunate as not to have had any strictly contagious disease in the institution. We had two cases of typhoid fever. Quite a number of the boys had pneumonia. Among the accidents, one boy fractured the left leg and another boy injured in a coasting accident, was detained in the hospital fully three months, blood poison having set up. We have had no death.

The buildings have been kept in a thoroughly cleanly and sanitary condition. This matter is not attended to in a spasmodic manner, but is looked after day by day.

Very respectfully,

CHAS. A. WELLS, M. D.,
Attending Physician.

The TRUSTEES, REFORM SCHOOL, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

EXHIBIT N.—Report of the board of trustees of the Reform School for Girls of the District of Columbia.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1, 1898.

SIR: I respectfully submit herewith the sixth annual report of the board of trustees of the Reform School for Girls of the District of Columbia, together with the reports of the superintendent, the visiting physician, and the treasurer.

You are respectfully referred to the reports for 1896 and 1897 for the history of the school and the statistics respecting its inmates to the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897. On July 1, 1897, there were 27 girls in the school, and the same number on June 30, 1898. The smallest number present was 19, on February 1, 1898, and the largest 28, on May 26, 1898. Fourteen girls have been committed to the institution by the police courts and the board of trustees, and 1 girl bound out in the previous year was returned. Nineteen girls have been released, of whom 7 were committed to their parents. One of the latter has been returned to the school. Ten girls were apprenticed in families in this city, in Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. Of these, 2 were within a few months of being of age, and no longer now are eligible for admission to the school; 2 were returned for incorrigibility, and 1 left the home provided for her and subsequently was returned to the school. The lists appended to the superintendent's report show these details of the movements of inmates.

On July 20, 1897, fire was discovered in the laundry, and during the consequent excitement 5 girls made their escape, but all were returned within twenty-four hours. On May 8, 1898, a girl escaped, but was returned within three hours. The girl who set fire to the laundry was indicted for arson at the October term of the supreme court of the District of Columbia, and upon trial, in February, she was convicted and sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the New Jersey State prison, at Trenton, N. J. It may be remarked here that the laundry fire was extinguished by the officers and employees, using the water and chemical apparatus of the school, with inconsiderable loss, although at one point there was danger of the destruction of the entire building, and the girls, with the exceptions indicated, behaved well, helping to remove property and effects and returning them afterwards without loss.

During the year no girl of more than 17 years of age has been committed to the school, the majority being from 15 to 16. This fact, which has made administration more effective, leads the board to call attention again to their recommendation that the age limit of admission should be reduced from 18 to 16 years and of dismissal from 21 to 18 years, and we now submit that at least we should be given some discretion on this point, or that provision should be made for separating the older and hardened girls from the younger ones.

It is merely stating a truth common to both the punitive and reformatory theories of dealing with criminals and defectives to say that some method of separation of older from younger subjects should be applied and some measure of restraint and correction to this end be employed. The difficulty with all reformatories proceeds on the uniform experience of contamination of those who may be reclaimed from those who possibly or probably may not, where no proper system of segregation is observed. A disadvantage in the school allied to the foregoing is the tendency of inmates (due to various causes, but mainly, perhaps, to parental willingness to shirk responsibility) to remain year after year until the age of compulsory dismissal is reached, treating the institution as a home, which it is not. Its true function is reform, and this will be subserved by a prompt course of discipline, training, and education, and early discharge to conditions of practical life and work. In this way the institution will observe its aim and will influence a much larger number of those for whom it was founded. While no system of reform can be regarded as a rapid or merely experimental process, on the other hand it is essential to guard against this vice of stagnation and mere acceptance of support, which is a danger common to all charitable and reformatory institutions. The notions proper to a "home" do not apply here.

During October last there were two cases of a dangerous contagious disease of the venereal type, which were taken to hospitals for treatment and were much improved, but they call attention to the fact that at present there are no arrangements for the isolation of any contagious disease and to the necessity of providing therefor in the new building, to which reference is made below. Aside from these cases the health of all inmates of the institution has been excellent.

The training of the girls proceeds on the practical lines of household duties and garden and farm work and elementary education, to which has been added instruction in singing and flower culture. The latter branches exert an influence which is humanizing and develop the social instincts in the right way. In this connection, a small library of such books as would rightly appeal to the girls would be of great service. It is too late, in the light of tested modern views of symmetrical development, to regard such agencies as mere notions and fancies. The effect of the training and habits so inculcated and of the simple and direct religious instruction imparted is apparent in the generally good morale of the school. Although with the present number of inmates the ordinary household or garden duties of the institution fully occupy the girls, with its enlargement the trustees propose to install on a suitable scale a system of such practical industries as are within the girls' capacities.

The garden has not yielded satisfactory results during the past year, partly owing to the early wet weather, followed by the long drought. But the character of the land is also partly responsible, and provision for more careful cultivation and for more extensive fertilizing is important. The poultry and stock have done well, although a larger acreage of pasture for the latter is much needed.

The legislation of Congress affecting the school should be referred to again, as follows: The act incorporating the school (July 9, 1888, 25 Stat., 245) provides (sec. 3) that the board of trustees shall have the same power and authority as the board of the Boys' Reform School, and (sec. 4) that they shall have authority to appoint officers and other employees as may be necessary, and fix the rate of compensation of the same, subject to the approval of the Commissioners of the District; and (sec. 6) that the provisions of the acts relating to the Boys' Reform School shall, when not inconsistent, be applicable, mutatis mutandis, to the Girls' Reform School.

The acts relating to the Boys' Reform School, however, provide that the compensation of such employees other than officers (whose salaries are fixed by law) shall be fixed by the board, subject to the approval of the Attorney-General, and it is submitted that it would be well to transfer the necessary approval of the appointment and compensation of the officers and employees from the Commissioners of the District to the Attorney-General. To the same end, as consolidating and restricting the control of and responsibility for this institution, it is submitted that the proper heading therefor in appropriation bills and other legislation is under "Prisons and reformatories" and not under "Charities and correction." The institution is strictly a reformatory and not a charity.

Your attention is called to page 6 of our last annual report, presenting a statement regarding the office of treasurer, by which it appears that an appropriation for the treasurer's salary is made only in half-yearly moieties under the deficiency bills. The same facts exist at present, and it is respectfully urged that Congress be asked to make an appropriation for the treasurer's salary for the entire fiscal year 1899-1900, to be available in monthly payments from the beginning of the year.

Your attention is again called to the question of the use of this institution for white girls of the types needing reformation, as well for colored girls. At present it is restricted to the latter, and it appears to be the undoubted experience of those familiar with this subject that it is best to separate the two races, particularly when they belong to the criminal or lower classes. The addition to the school buildings which is now authorized by Congress will give such increased accommodations as will provide separate quarters for both white and colored girls, and while few applications have been made in the past for the admission of white girls, and none such have been finally committed by the judges of the courts or the police, it is believed there is no doubt that under the new conditions there will be many applications on behalf of white girls or commitments of such, who should be sent to this institution instead of to the jail or the workhouse or to institutions outside the District of Columbia. The purpose of the institution includes both racess, and it is through no fault of the trustees that it has not heretofore been availed of for both.

This brings us to the subject of a new building, the erection of which, at a cost of $50,000, Congress, by the act of June 30, 1898 (30 Stat., 525, 542), authorized, and for which by the same act the sum of $25,000 was actually appropriated.

A conference will shortly take place between the Commissioners of the District and a committee of the board of trustees, at which plans will be considered. The board will be governed on this important subject by the experience of leading institutions of the same nature as to arrangement of dormitories, sanitation, and other necessities of successful administration. In particular they will need to consider carefully the proper requirements as to living and sleeping rooms in view of race, age, and character classification, and the application in whole or in part of the ward system of dormitory arrangement, with some provision for the hospital side of the school life.

IMPROVEMENTS MADE DURING THE YEAR.

(1) A new dresser has been built in the kitchen and the old one repaired and placed in the storeroom for a fruit closet.

(2) The old dish closet and sink have been removed from the girls' dining room and the sink set in the pantry, made by partitioning off a part of the kitchen storeroom.

(3) The walls and woodwork of all pantries have been painted by our overseer.

(4) Awnings have been placed over kitchen doors and windows.

(5) The old floor has been removed from the entire cellar and a new floor of Portland cement laid. This adds greatly to the cleanliness of the basement.

(6) The old board partition between the girls' water-closet and the lumber room has been removed and a new brick wall with gratings, 2½ by 18 feet, has been built, thus admitting plenty of light and air. New covers have been placed on the trough, and galvanized iron ventilator put in place. For sanitary reasons this is the most important thing that has been done during the year.

(7) Through the kindness of Mr. Janney we were given a lot of desks that had been discarded in the public schools in Washington, and these, when cleaned, oiled, and put in place in both schoolroom and sewing room, filled a long-felt want.

(8) Both schoolrooms and reception rooms have been painted.

(9) The weight of the large water tank on the top of the building and the iron screen around the stairway on the second and third floors was beginning to cause the upper floors to sag a little. For this reason the first, second, and third floors were supported or shored up at a cost of $200, according to plans prepared by the Government inspector of buildings.

(10) We have always had to depend on 26 kerosene lamps to light the entire building, and this has always been a source of much worry and danger. By economy we have saved enough to have the house wired for electric lights. The current we shall get by connecting our wires with those of the electric railway at the foot of the hill.

(11) Last year we had a fine lot of winter vegetables, but our storage cellar was wholly inadequate to our needs. This year we are having a brick root cellar 15 by 12 by 8 feet built, where we hope to keep our winter vegetables much better than heretofore.

(12) The gutters and cornice have been given two coats of paint.

(13) A new laundry stove for heating a large number of irons was bought in July, and has proved a great help.

IMPROVEMENTS NEEDED.

Now that Congress has appropriated funds for additional buildings, we feel that much better work can be done at far less expense per capita than heretofore. This building has been much improved recently, but the following improvements are needed:

(1) The walls and the halls and officers' and girls' rooms need painting.

(2) We have no hospital room or ward, and our experience shows that some provision for this should be made.

(3) In rainy or snowy weather the girls are obliged to take their recreation in the schoolroom. A large covered piazza along the south and west sides of the building would be an excellent place for this purpose, as well as a shelter from the hot sun in summer.

(4) We strongly urge the need of more pasture for the cows and horses.

(5) Sundry smaller items of improvement are required, for which the board will be able to provide out of current funds.

APPROPRIATIONS.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900, the following appropriations are asked:

Pasture for cattle.—Attention is again called to the necessity for a pasture for our cattle. There is no place at the school upon which to pasture our cattle and horses. If Congress will grant for the use of the school 10 or 15 acres of Government land in the neighborhood, it would assist us greatly.

Accompanying these reports will be found the reports of the superintendent, visiting physician, and treasurer, which are commended to your attention. We desire to attest again the devotion and interest in the school shown by the superintendent, and by the other house officials, under whom the satisfactory condition of the institution has been maintained. The usual exhibits also accompany this report.

Respectfully, yours,

HENRY M. HOYT,
President Board of Trustees.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 30, 1898.

SIR: The following report of this institution for the past year is respectfully submitted:

July 1, 1897, there were 27 girls in the school—the same number present June 30, 1898. The smallest number at one time was 19, February 1, 1898, and the largest number 28, May 26, 1898.

Fourteen girls have been committed by the police court and president board of trustees, and 1 who was bound out in the previous year returned.

Of the 19 girls released, 7 were given to their parents; of these 1 has been returned. Ten girls were apprenticed in families in the city, in Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. Of these 2 were of age in a few months and no longer belong to the school; 2 were returned for incorrigibility, and 1 left the home provided for her and was afterward returned to the school.

On July 20, 1897, fire was set in the laundry, and during the excitement that followed 5 girls escaped, but all were returned within twenty-four hours. May 8 a girl escaped, but was returned in less than three hours.

November 20, 1897, the girl who set fire to the laundry was indicted by the grand jury and committed to the jail to await trial for arson. February 19, 1898, she was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary at Trenton, N. J. This was the girl whose admission to the school April 30, 1897, was so bitterly opposed. As long as she was in the house she was the cause of constant worry and trouble. Since she was removed in November there is a marked difference in the behavior of the other girls.

I wish to state how well most of the girls behaved during the time the laundry was burning and there was danger of everything in the house being consumed. Many of the girls turned to and helped carry out mattresses and other bedding, clothing, chairs from all the officers' and girls' rooms on the second and third floors, and all books, chairs, tables, etc., from the office and reception rooms on the first floor. After the fright was over everything was returned and nothing was found missing.

During the past year no girl of more than 17 years has been committed to the school, the majority being between 15 and 16 years of age. This has been a great help to us, and we believe if the age of dismissal could be changed from 21 to 18 years it would be well, or if we could keep older girls who have been here several years entirely separated from younger ones coming in. We have a small number of girls who have been here four years or more. Of these, 1 was apprenticed last November. She was so unwilling to work or to try to do anything that was expected of her, that after a trial of ten days we had to take her back. Another has been placed in two different homes during the past year. In the first she was expected to do all of a woman's work and use a woman's judgment, and, of course, proved utterly incompetent. We felt that this was not a fair trial for the girl and she was transferred to another home, where her duties were very light. She was sent back to us after being in this home five months because she would not keep herself neat and clean, and for impoliteness.

Neither of these girls ever gives much trouble in the school, and they are always clean and do the work assigned them fairly well. One is nearly 17 and the other nearly 18 years old, and unless they change very much they will have to remain here until they are 21 years old, for they both seem determined not to work outside. We think that keeping such girls as these so many years only keeps out other girls who might be benefited by the training and help received here. I trust these few facts will merit your consideration.

* * * * *

Our garden last year has been a great help to us in many ways. We had an abundance of all vegetables during the summer, and quantities of beets, turnips, parsnips, salsify, carrots, cabbage, and potatoes for the winter.

The long cold rainy spring has been very bad for all gardens this year, and the unusual drought since has burned much vegetation. Potatoes have been planted and replanted, but bid fair to make only a poor crop. Other vegetables are fairly promising, but we fear we shall not have such a generous supply as that of last year.

Through the kindness of Commissioner Wight and the chief of the fire department, we have been able to get a two-horse wagon load of manure each week for several months from the engine house in Georgetown. As our land is poor, we can use this to advantage.

The poultry is doing well, and we have had all the fresh eggs we could use. In the year we have had 5,995 eggs or nearly 500 dozen, and 200 young chickens this spring.

The ice house was filled with 70 tons of good ice in February at a small cost for additional labor.

Three calves, 5 hogs, and 200 chickens have been killed and used.

Two cows were sold, and 2 new ones bought in place of them.

We have 2 fine calves that we intend to raise.

Improvements needed.—Now that Congress has appropriated funds for additional buildings, we feel that much better work can be done at far less expense per capita than heretofore. This building has been much improved recently, but the following improvements are needed:

(1) The walls in the halls and officers' and girls' rooms need painting.
(2) We have no hospital room or ward, and our experience shows that some provision for this should be made.

(3) In rainy or snowy weather the girls are obliged to take their recreation in the school room. A large covered piazza along the south and west sides of the building would be an excellent place for this purpose as well as a shelter from the hot sun in summer.

(4) We strongly urge the need of more pasture for the cows and horses.

The school has been regularly visited by one or more trustees each week, and to every member of the board, but particularly to the ladies

I have the honor to be, yours, respectfully,

ANNA F. DEAN,
Treasurer of Reform School for Girls, District of Columbia.

NOVEMBER 8, 1898.

The BOARD OF TRUSTEES,
Girls' Reform School, District of Columbia:

On the whole, the health of the inmates of this institution has been excellent during the past year. This is due to the admirable locality of the buildings, to their entire freedom from malaria, and in very large measure to the ability and care of the present superintendent, Miss Rule. In such an institution the health of the girls will largely depend on the training of the superintendent, who should always be a trained nurse. Miss Rule has had an exceptionally good training to fit her for her position, and the general health of the girls was never so good as under her management.

Two of the girls were sent for about three weeks to the Freedmen's Hospital for isolation. They were suffering from a contagious disease, and it was necessary to separate them absolutely from the rest of the inmates. They still require to be carefully watched, as without proper treatment they may easily become a dangerous source of infection to the other girls. In both cases the disease was contracted before admission to the school. I desire to take this opportunity to thank the superintendent of the Freedmen's Hospital for admitting these cases to his ward. The presence of these two cases of disease at the school brings forward the evident necessity of the construction of a small isolation ward for patients who may develop any of the common contagious or infectious diseases after admission to the school. There should be means for treating them on the spot.

I have to call your attention again to the lack of proper medical and surgical supplies at your institution. In my opinion no school of this sort should be without a supply of some of the standard drugs, and a few of the more common surgical instruments. Remote as the school is from doctors, and considering that the telephone is frequently out of order, the necessity of these becomes at once apparent.

Respectfully submitted.

RUPERT NORTON, M. D.

EXHIBIT O.—Report of the warden of the United States jail in the District of Columbia.

UNITED STATES JAIL,
Washington, D. C., November 1, 1898.

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith my annual report of this jail for the year ending October 31, 1898.

The work begun by my predecessor on the women's new department is approaching completion, and will be done within the appropriation made for the same.

Nothing has been done in the way of building a wall around the jail, for which there has been made an appropriation of $10,000. While I am subject in this matter to the wishes of the Department of Justice, and am willing to do whatever in its judgment is best, I desire to say, however, that so far as my opinion goes, the wall, as contemplated, will be of no utility whatever to this jail. I have sufficiently investigated the matter, I think, so that I know that the entire cost of the wall, as contemplated, will not be less than $100,000. The use of the prison labor on said wall, in the cost of building the same, is comparatively small to that of the whole cost, believing that the material for same will be more than 75 per cent of the entire cost of building the wall. I have many other reasons for believing that the wall should not be built, which I will be willing to disclose if called upon. But I do believe that a sum of money sufficient to build a respectable and substantial iron picket fence around the jail premises should be appropriated for that purpose. The wooden fence now surrounding the jail is in very bad repair and very unsightly.

I have had very little reason to complain of the contractors furnishing supplies to the jail. There will be a material increase in the cost of supplies for the jail for the ensuing year, because of the prevalent high prices at the time your Department made the contracts for the same. I will use my best endeavor, however, to overcome such additional cost by all the economy that can be practiced consistent with good and proper management of the jail.

I take pleasure in saying that I have a splendid corps of officers, every one of whom seems intent upon discharging his whole duty, and they deserve special praise for their conduct while on duty.

I include herewith the report of the jail physician regarding the medical conduct of the jail; also tables giving a detailed account of the business of the jail.

We are indebted to the Department of Justice and to the honorable judges of the supreme court of the District of Columbia and the United States district attorney for their assistance and for their promptness in disposing of those cases held for trial.

Very respectfully,

JAMES H. HARRIS,
Warden United States Jail.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

UNITED STATES JAIL,
Washington, D. C., October 17, 1898.

DEAR SIR: I respectfully submit my report for the year ending October 31, 1898, on the medical conduct of the jail.

One prisoner died of acute croupous pneumonia; another of heart disease (mitral regurgitation); and a third from chronic Bright's disease.

During the spring and autumn months a large number of the prisoners had severe malarial fever. The officers also suffered a great deal from the same fever. A great many of the prisoners were treated for minor affections, such as mumps, sore throat, skin diseases, and minor surgical operations. A large number of the prisoners came to the jail suffering with the various venereal diseases. Three prisoners were treated for severe forms of chronic opium habit, and were apparently cured. One prisoner was operated upon successfully at the Emergency Hospital for a grave form of appendicitis. His recovery was complete.

The sanitary condition of the jail has been very good, apart from its location near the Eastern Branch flats.

Respectfully,

D. K. SHUTE, M. D.,

Physician to the United States Jail.

Capt. JAMES H. HARRIS,

Warden United States Jail, District of Columbia.

EXHIBIT P.—Report of the Architect of the Capitol.

ARCHITECT'S OFFICE, UNITED STATES CAPITOL,
Washington, D. C., October 13, 1898.

SIR: I have the honor to report that during the past year the following repairs and improvements have been made at United States courthouse, this city:

The walls and ceilings of two court rooms have been painted. The steam-heating and ventilating plant and the plumbing and sewerage throughout the building have been overhauled, the roof and down spouts of the building repaired. A large skylight has been placed in the ceiling of the west hall. Ventilators have been placed in the ceiling of the room of the equity court.

In the marshal's office the mantel has been removed, the fireplace walled up, and the railing shifted for clerical accommodation; the walls of this room painted; and additional shelving put in the stationery room of this office.

A doorway has been constructed in the district attorney's room and the room painted. A doorway has been cut in the brick wall leading to the private room of the recorder of deeds; this room has been painted. Iron grating and wire screens have been provided for prisoner's room in basement story.

By reason of the worn condition of the stairway leading from the basement to the principal story at the east end of the building this stairway has been reconstructed.

Various minor repairs have been made and the interior of the building put in good condition.

Very respectfully,

EDWARD OLARK,
Architect United States Capitol.

tences were commuted, during the fiscal year. This statement also shows the districts in which the convicts were tried, when they were convicted, their offenses, the recommendations made by the Attorney-General, the dates upon which the President acted, and the nature of such action. It will be observed that this statement differs from those heretofore submitted, in that the principal reasons for extending clemency are shown in the indorsements of the Attorney-General rather than those of the President. This arises from the fact that the President now requires of the Attorney-General recommendations as to the propriety of extending clemency, with brief statements of the reasons upon which such recommendations are based.

Respectfully, yours,

J. H. CAMPBELL,
Pardon Attorney.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

William Crawford	Ohio, northern	Forging signature to money order and passing same.	3½ years in Ohio penitentiary.	Apr. 21, 1897	Pardon recommended. The crime consisted of forging a name to a postal money order for $21. The repentance of the defendant was almost immediate, and he made restitution of $15. The other $6 was used to buy a ticket to his home. His sentence was for 3 years—a very severe sentence. He has served nearly 10 months, which is sufficient punishment for the offense.	Pardon granted	1898. Jan. 14
Clyde Mattox	Kansas	Murder	To be hanged. Commuted to imprisonment for life Sept. 23, 1896.	June 26, 1896	Pardon recommended. The defendant's guilt is very doubtful. If the witnesses were of good character, which they seem not to be, the circumstances under which they claim to have identified the defendant discredit them. Besides, testimony material, and which may be entertained by the pardoning power, though declared by the Supreme Court to be technically inadmissible, discredit the witnesses, and the district attorney who tried the case and the judge who presided recommend pardon.do	Jan. 14
James Kirk	Indian Territory, northern.	Larceny	1 year and 1 day in United States penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.	May —, 1897	Pardon recommendeddo	Jan. 18
T. M. Montgomery	Tennessee, eastern	Embezzling from the mails.	2 years in Ohio penitentiary.	Apr. 12, 1892	The offense consisted in abstracting letters from the mail and embezzling contents. Defendant denied his guilt, but was convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for 2 years. This was affirmed on appeal. President Harrison commuted the imprisonment to 1 year. Judgment was not entered on the mandate, and the defendant has not yet been resentenced—the court sus-do	Jan. 18

Robert Thomas.....	Nevada.....	Assault with intent to kill.....	3 years in Nevada State prison.....	Nov. 24, 1886	pending sentence to await Executive action. There has always been a doubt of guilt. The jury which convicted him recommended that "no punishment be inflicted on him." The district attorney who prosecuted the case recommends a pardon, and the present United States district judge does also, basing it on conversation had with the judge who tried the case, and from additional facts which have come to his knowledge. The defendant is not believed to be a criminal, and is now practicing law, and Mr. Moon, Representative in Congress, says, "commends the respect and confidence of the best people." I recommend a pardon. The defendant is an Indian. He is affected by paralysis, and prison physician reports may die at any time. The district attorney reports that his recovery is improbable, and recommends a pardon, which is concurred in by the United States district judge. Pardon recommended.do.....	Jan. 18
Ira B. Packard.....	Texas, northern.....	Embezzling postal funds.....	2 years in United States penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and fine of $100 and costs.	June 20, 1886	Defendant was indicted and convicted for embezzlement of postal funds and sentenced to imprisonment for 2 years, which will expire February 19, 1888. The district attorney and district judge recommend a pardon upon the expiration of three-fourths of the term. Three-fourths of the term—18 months—expired on the 24th of last December, and with good time allowance would have expired in September. The defendant sold his property to reimburse the Government leaving his family in straitened circumstances. Prior to his offense he bore a good character. Pardon recommended.do.....	Jan. 20

John Albert, Jr.	Indian Territory, northern.	Horse theft	5 years and 1 month in house of reformation at Cheltenham, Md.	Dec. 11, 1896	Pardon recommended on the ground that the prisoner is in the final stages of consumption and can, according to the certificate of the resident physician of the prison, live only 6 or 8 months longer. The United States attorney and Judge Springer concur in recommending pardon.	Pardon granted	Feb. 11
Arthur D. Andrews ...	California, southern	Depositing in the mail an obscene letter.	3 years in California State prison.	Mar. 5, 1894	Prisoner has been in prison since November, 1893, 4 years and 3 months, although his sentence was for only 3 years. This was on account of the running of his sentence being suspended by a writ of error. I think he has been sufficiently punished.do	Feb. 17
Stanislan Wroblenski .	Delaware	Passing counterfeit money.	8 years in Kings County penitentiary and fine of $1,000 and costs.	Jan. 10, 1894	I think the sentence in this case, 8 years for passing two 50-cent and 1 25-cent silver coins, was excessive. The prisoner is a poor, ignorant man, who when he committed the offense had been in this country only a short time. The usual sentence for such offenses is imprisonment for from 2 to 5 years. The prisoner has now been in prison over 4 years. I recommend a pardon and remission of the fine.do	Feb. 17
Joseph Allred	Missouri, eastern ...	Having in possession and passing counterfeit money.	1 year in Adair County jail and fine of $100 and costs.	May 28, 1897	Pardon recommended on ground that prisoner is suffering from a complication of serious diseases, one a very loathsome one, and that he will soon die.do	Feb. 17
Jack Wilkerson	Texas, eastern	Assault with intent to kill.	2½ years in Ohio penitentiary.	Dec. 31, 1896	Pardon recommended on ground of prisoner's illness, it appearing from the certificate of the prison physician that he has been in hospital nearly a year, and is not likely to live out his term, which would expire October, 1898.do	Feb. 17

L. S. Whitfield.....	California, northern	Having in possession and passing counterfeit money.	10 years in California State prison and fine of $1,000.	Nov. 14, 1893	The prisoner has already served 4 years and 3 months in prison. His term of sentence was 10 years. In view of his ill health, his youth, his good conduct in prison, and the fact that the sentence was unusually long for such cases, I recommend he be pardoned.do	Feb. 17
Marion Holderman	Arkansas, western..	Larceny	1 year in Detroit house of correction.	Oct. 21, 1885	Petitioner * * * served out his sentence and now asks to be pardoned in order to be restored to citizenship. The certificates to his exemplary life since his release are satisfactory. I recommend a pardon.	Pardoned to restore citizenship.	Feb. 17
Ike Church.....	North Carolina, western.	Retailing and concealing spirits.	18 months in Ohio penitentiary and fine of $100.	Apr. 21, 1897	It is an ordinary case for illicit distilling. The usual term for this offense is 4 to 6 months. The sentence in this case was made 18 months, under a wrong impression on the part of the court and district attorney as to defendant's connection with some other alleged crime. The prisoner has already served 10 months.	Pardon granted.....	Feb. 18
Dick Cardwell and John Cardwell.	Indian Territory, southern.	Larceny of cattle....	5 years in United States penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kans.	Sept. 23, 1896	The petitioners are brothers convicted of stealing cattle. The offense was not of great seriousness. The district attorney says, from developments since the trial, he is of opinion that they may have been convicted by means of false evidence. The sentence (5 years) was very long for a first offense. The defendants have been in jail nearly 18 months. I recommend that they be pardoned.do	Mar. 8
Michael O'Shea.....	South Dakota	Fraudulently issuing postal-money orders.	3 years in South Dakota penitentiary.	Apr. 19, 1894	Petitioner's term of imprisonment expired September, 1896. He asks a pardon in order to be restored to citizenship. The testimonials of his neighbors show that he has been an exemplary man since his release; that he was probably led into the commission of the crime while subject to intemperate habits. I recommend a pardon.	Pardoned to restore citizenship.	Mar. 8

Henry Kennedy	South Carolina	Stealing from the mails.	1 year in Ohio penitentiary.	May 8, 1896	Petitioner's term expired in April, 1897. He asks pardon in order to be restored to citizenship. The testimonials of the trial judge, the district attorney, and influential neighbors bear witness to his honest and exemplary conduct since his release. I recommend that his petition be granted.	Pardoned to restore citizenship.	1898. Mar. 8
George W. Barnes	Iowa, southern	Receiving stolen postage stamps.	4 years in Iowa penitentiary and fine of $1,800.	June 8, 1894	Petitioner served out his term of imprisonment and desires a pardon in order to be restored to citizenship. I recommend a pardon.do	Mar. 15
Elwood B. Hendricks, alias Joseph Carey.	District of Columbia	Larceny from the person.	6 months in United States jail.	Dec. 16, 1897	The prisoner is a lad, 17 years of age. The district attorney expresses doubt of his complicity with the theft for which he was convicted. The trial judge joins the district attorney in recommending his pardon. The boy has a very respectable father. The son ran away from school and got into bad company. I think he has been sufficiently punished, and recommend a pardon.	Pardon granted....	Mar. 15
A. B. Harris	Texas, eastern	Introducing liquor into Indian Territory.	1 year and 1 day in Ohio penitentiary and fine of $100.	Apr. 12, 1895	The petitioner has served out his sentence, and for 8 years since has lived an honest life. His pardon is desired in order to restore him to civil rights. I recommend it.	Pardoned to restore citizenship.	Mar. 19
Bill Stewartdo	Horse theft (two indictments).	4 years, in each case, in Ohio penitentiary.	May 29 and June 18, 1896.	Pardon recommended on account of ill health of prisoner, the prison physician reporting him to be in the last stage of consumption.	Pardon granted....	Mar. 21
Harry Mason	Michigan, western...	Embezzling from the mail.	1 year and 6 months in Detroit house of correction.	July 22, 1897	This prisoner has served out about one-half of his term. He is very ill with consumption and can live but a short while. For that reason I recommend that he be pardoned.do	Mar. 21

Sept. 29, 1897	The frauds committed by these prisoners, in the perpetration of which they criminally used the United States mails, were not very serious. I recommend that that time be allowed him on the present sentence, and that his term be reduced by commutation so as to expire Feb. 18, 1899, instead of Aug. 18, 1900, making his imprisonment equivalent in both cases to a 5-years sentence, with allowance for good behavior. It is difficult to know what is just to the Government and the convict at this late day. He is now, it appears, in an official position, and if required to undergo imprisonment would of course lose his place. The offense of which he was guilty involves no moral turpitude. I recommend that the sentence of imprisonment be commuted. * * * He (Hart) has been in prison about 3 months. He was subjected to most able and vigorous prosecution at the hands of the Department of Justice, entailing upon him much expense and distress of mind. He has been severely punished by the term of imprisonment already suffered. Many citizens are sympathetically interested in his release. A paper signed by 76 Senators of the United States asks for his pardon. I think it has been made manifest by this time that the neutrality laws of the United States will be vigorously and severely enforced by the Government, and that the punishment already undergone by Captain Hart is adequate under the circumstances to serve as a warning and an example, and that no harm can come to the administration of justice by his release. His offense is not to be regarded as either justified or condoned. His pardon at this time will imply merely that he has, under the peculiar circumstances of the case, been adequately punished by the imprisonment already undergone. (The Secretary of the Navy recommended a full and unconditional pardon.)	Pardon granted..... EXHIBIT R.—Report of the special attorney in charge of matters relating to the Mission Indians.

RIVERSIDE, CAL., October 14, 1898.

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith report of matters under my charge as special counsel for Mission Indians of southern California.

The two cases of J. Downey Harvey, administrator of the estate of John E. Downey, against the Indians of the Warner Ranch in San Diego County, to quiet title to about three thousand acres of land upon which the Indians, to the number of about five hundred, reside, and upon which they are dependent for their sustenance, are pending in the supreme court of the State of California on appeal from the decision of the superior court of San Diego County.

Transcript and briefs in both cases have been filed, copies of which have been forwarded to your office, and the cases come up for argument before the supreme court on October 17, 1898.

The case of the San Felipe Land and Water Company against the Indians on the San Felipe Grant, in San Diego County, is at issue, but by mutual consent is allowed to rest pending the decision in the Warner cases.

In the case of the Catholic bishop of Monterey against the Indians on the Cañada de los Pinos, or College Ranch, in Santa Barbara County, a new agreement has been made with the plaintiff, whereby the Indians are to be secured in the possession of all the lands which they claim as theirs or as having belonged to their ancestors, and before judgment is entered deeds for these lands will be made to the United States in trust for the Indians.

In August, 1897, the Commissioner of Indian Affairs requested me to take steps to protect the interests of the Indians living on lands known as La Jolla, in San Diego County, under patent issued under the provisions of an act of Congress of January 12, 1891, as against the claims of Jesus Apis et al. under petition for confirmation of a Mexican grant.

Upon investigation I found the matter had been tried and submitted in the United States district court, southern district of California, and upon consultation with the United States district attorney and permission of the court I prepared and filed a brief and attached thereto a certified copy of the patent to the Indians.

The petition for confirmation was denied.

I have attended to a number of matters for the Indians and the United States Indian agent before the United States land office, and have attended upon the taking of proofs in homestead matters before the United States commissioners at San Diego and other places in cases where the interests of the Indians were affected, and I have had, by reference from the United States Indian agent and the Indians throughout the district, numerous matters of small or local importance, but which, though demanding attention at the time, are not of sufficient interest or present importance to require particular mention.

Very respectfully,

United States Special Attorney for Mission Indians.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
Washington, D. C.

EXHIBIT V.—Report on bankruptcy matters.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,
Washington, D. C., November 15, 1898.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

(Through Hon. L. A. Pradt, Assistant Attorney-General.)

SIR: Pursuant to section 53 of the act of July 1, 1898, establishing "a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States," I beg leave to submit the following report with reference to bankruptcy matters:

On three different occasions previous to the present, Congress enacted laws governing bankruptcy, namely, April 4, 1800, August 19, 1841, and March 2, 1867. Owing to serious inherent defects, the lives of these were limited, respectively, to three, two, and eleven years. The act of 1867, however, was more nearly equable as between the debtor and creditor and came nearer meeting the wants of the people; but owing to the expense incident to litigation and the administration of the law, more than all else, it was repealed June 7, 1878, to take effect September 1, 1878.

The law of July 1, 1898, is a vast improvement over previous legislation. It has profited by the experience gained under the earlier laws and retains their good features, while many other important and valuable provisions have been added to meet the present need and demand of the people. The system as found in this law is most complete, even to many of the minutest details, although some minor amendments may be suggested and others will be as the actual workings of the law demonstrate the necessity therefor.

The provision of the law permitting the filing of petitions in voluntary bankruptcy took effect August 1, 1898. The law having so recently taken effect, it is difficult at this time to make any report of its operation. In eight districts the courts declined to proceed with the reference and adjudication of the petitions pending the promulgation of the rules, forms, and orders by the Supreme Court, while the others have proceeded and made adjudications in accordance with the light furnished by the workings of the act of 1867 and have discharged the bankrupt or have referred the case to the referee for action.

The law has demonstrated that the applicants for relief have been found in every walk of life, irrespective of class, occupation, or locality, and it can hardly be said that one class more than another has availed itself of its privileges. It has also demonstrated still another thing, which the advocates of the law so prominently pressed, namely, that the large class of men who have been unfortunate in business and have had hanging over them obligations which they were unable to meet, and which prevented them from renewed business activity, are availing themselves of the relief offered.

In compliance with the requirements of this office, reports have been received from the clerks of all bankruptcy courts, with the exception of two districts, covering the period from the date of passage of the act to October 20. From these reports it appears that 1,888 petitions have been filed under the voluntary provision of the act. The following districts report no applicants for relief, viz: Delaware, Nevada, New Mexico, eastern Pennsylvania, and Wyoming. Each of the following districts report less than five petitions filed: Southern Alabama, Arizona, District of Columbia, southern Florida, Idaho, northern and central Indian Territory, eastern and western Louisiana, western Michigan,

New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, western Tennessee, and western Virginia.

The following is a tabulated statement showing the number of petitions which have been filed in each district:

The involuntary feature of the law, which permits creditors to have their debtor adjudicated a bankrupt, did not take effect until November 1, 1898, and consequently no report can as yet be made of its workings.

By section 30 of this law, as in the act of 1867, the rules, forms, and orders are to be prepared by the Supreme Court of the United States. These have not as yet been promulgated, owing to the fact that the court had adjourned at the time of the passage of the act and has but recently reconvened. It is confidently expected, however, that they will be promulgated at an early date.

I would respectfully call attention to one or two features of the act which will doubtless need Congressional action. Section 44 provides that in case the creditors of a bankrupt estate shall fail to appoint a trustee or trustees, as required, "the court shall do so." Pursuant to this provision referees have in some instances made such appointments as the word "court" is defined by the act to mean "the court of bankruptcy in which the proceedings are pending, and may include the referee." (Sec. 1 [7].) But the section establishing courts of bankruptcy and defining their jurisdiction provides that such court shall, "pursuant to the recommendation of creditors or when they neglect to recommend the appointment of trustees, appoint trustees," etc. (Sec. 2 [17].) While, in accordance with the ordinary interpretation of statutes, a statutory provision specifically providing for a certain object is to prevail in preference to other provisions in the statute which in general terms might cover the same object, some conflict is likely to arise in the various districts, and legislation is suggested to cover this apparent defect.

Another provision of the law needing attention is that which requires the clerk of the court to "collect the fees of the clerk, referee, and trustee in each case instituted before filing the petition, except the petition of a proposed voluntary bankrupt which is accompanied by an affidavit stating that the petitioner is without, and can not obtain, the money with which to pay such fees," (sec. 51 [2]). In this case the necessary filing fee is consequently not required, and if it happens, as it frequently does, that the alleged bankrupt has no estate, no provision is made for compensating the referee for expenses necessarily incurred in administering upon the estate, advertising and serving notices as required by sections 28 and 58, nor for the clerk, or trustee, if any be appointed. By section 5 of the act of 1867 it was provided that the traveling and incidental expenses of the register, the clerk, or other officer attending him in so acting shall be "paid out of the assets of the estate in respect of which such register has so acted; or if there be no such assets or if the assets be insufficient, then such expenses shall form a part of the costs in the case or cases in which the register shall have acted in such journey, to be apportioned by the judge." The act of 1898 has no similar provision, and legislation is necessary in this respect.

Attention is also called to the execution by courts of sections 34 and 37, having reference to the appointment, number, and districts of referees. Section 34 (2) provides that the courts of bankruptcy shall "designate, and from time to time change, the limits of the districts of referees, so that each county, where the services of a referee are needed, may constitute at least one district." This provision would seem to indicate that Congress intended each county of a State to constitute at least one district, for which one referee shall be appointed. And section 37 provides that such number "shall be appointed as may be necessary to assist in expeditiously transacting the bankruptcy business pending in the various courts of bankruptcy." The latter section permits the court to increase the number indefinitely for each district, the limit being dependent entirely upon the amount of business. Some courts have appointed one referee for a number of counties, thus clearly defeating the purpose of the act to make the execution of the law inexpensive by avoiding unnecessary traveling expenses, etc., of referees, and at the same time to make the referee's court readily accessible to all.

The statement that Congress intended there should be at least one referee for each county is borne out by one of the reports of the Committee on the Judiciary with reference to the subject of bankruptcy.

In the next to the last line of section 67 (e), where reference is made to certain transfers of property which pass to the assignee on an adjudication of bankruptcy, the word "trustee" should be substituted for the word "assignee," as in the present act the word "trustee" has been substituted for the word "assignee," used in the act of 1867.

Respectfully submitted.

In Charge of Bankruptcy Matters.

EXHIBIT W.—Report of the special counsel for the United States in the cases against the Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific railways.

OMAHA, NEBR., October 15, 1898.

Hon. JOHN W. GRIGGS.

Attorney-General, Washington, D. C.

DEAR SIR: In compliance with your telegraphic request to submit as soon as possible report of proceedings for the year in the cases against the Union Pacific and Kansas Pacific railways, I have the honor to submit the following report on behalf of Hon. George Hoadly, leading counsel in these matters, and myself, acting under the direction of yourself and your predecessor.

In the last report of Governor Hoadly, dated November 16, 1897, occurs the following:

Thus, as far as the main line is concerned, this important litigation has happily ended to the great advantage of the Government, which will be reimbursed in full for all its advances by way of subsidy to the Union Pacific Railroad Company, with interest at 6 per cent per annum.

This has reference to the main line extending from Council Bluffs to the western terminal point, 5 miles beyond Ogden. With reference to the Kansas Division in Kansas and Missouri the same report contains the following statement:

The sale of the Kansas Division in Kansas and Missouri now stands postponed until the 15th day of December next.

Upon application made to Judge Sanborn, December 13, 1897, on the part of the United States, the sale of the Kansas Pacific Division was postponed for a period of not less than sixty days, and thereafter W. D. Cornish, master in chancery, advertised the sale under the Government decree to take place at Topeka, Kans., on the 16th day of February, 1898.

As the guarantee of the reorganization committee to bid $45,754.-059.99, which was afterwards increased to $50,000,000, had reference to both the main line and the Kansas Division, and as the main line itself realized the full amount of the Government lien and claim thereon, $58,448,223.75, it was thought that the only provision regulating a bid with respect to the Kansas Division was that provided by the decree, a copy of which is in the files of your office. This was not deemed adequate protection to the Government.

On the 8th day of February, 1898, under the power vested in the President by an act of Congress, entitled "An act authorizing the investigation of the book accounts and methods of railroads which have received aid from the United States, and for other purposes," passed March 3, 1887, President McKinley issued an Executive order which, after reciting among other things as follows: "Whereas, in the opinion of the President, it is deemed necessary to the protection of the interests and preservation of the security of the United States in respect of its said lien and mortgage to redeem and clear off the aforesaid paramount liens and incumbrances by paying the sums lawfully due in respect thereof out of the Treasury, so that the United States shall thereupon become and be subrogated to all rights and securities heretofore pertaining to liens and mortgages in respect of which such payments shall be made," authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to pay out of the Treasury to the person or persons lawfully entitled to receive the same the amounts lawfully due upon the prior mortgages upon the Eastern and Middle Division of said railroad out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Thereafter, under your direction, a petition was prepared to be presented to Judge Sanborn, offering to redeem prior liens in such manner as the court should direct, and praying that thereupon the United States be held to be subrogated to all the rights of said prior lien holders, and that a receiver be appointed to take possession of the mortgaged premises and maintain and operate the same until Congress or the court otherwise provided, and that the sale fixed for February 16, 1898, be postponed.

In order to further protect the United States you caused the necessary deposit to be made with W. D. Cornish, master in chancery, to qualify the United States as a bidder at the sale, should that course become necessary, or be deemed advisable.

On the 12th day of February, 1898, Governor Hoadly and myself went to St. Louis for the purpose of presenting to Judge Sanborn the foregoing petition, under instructions contained in your letter of February 9, 1898. We also received from you a Treasury draft for $7,515,255.15, indorsed, "payable to the order of Hon. Walter H. Sanborn, judge," for the purpose of redemption of prior liens, if necessary. In this letter you stated that in the opinion of the President, in which you concurred, if a bid to the Government could be assured of the principal of the Government debt, viz, $6,303,000, the application for leave to redeem should be discontinued, and instructed us that, if the reorganization committee would agree in a binding manner, satisfactory to us, by which the Government would be assured of a bid at the sale sufficient to realize the principal of the Government claim, that we discontinue the proceedings to redeem and allow the sale to proceed as advertised.

Shortly before the time for presentation of the petition to the court we came to an agreement with the reorganization committee, represented by Winslow S. Pierce, satisfactory to us, that a bid of $6,303,000 would be made at the sale, if the sale would be permitted to go on at the time advertised. Announcement of this agreement was made in open court and the sale was permitted to proceed, and did proceed as advertised, when a bid was made, according to agreement, which realized to the United States the sum of $6,303,000; sale was thereafter confirmed and the purchase money paid into the Treasury of the United States. The Government thus realized by the foreclosure and the sale of the main line and the Kansas Division the sum of $64,751,223.75, being an increase of $18,997,163.76 over the first guarantee bid tendered by the reorganization committee.

There then remained due the Government the unpaid interest of the Kansas Division debt. On the 2d day of April, 1898, I filed in the circuit court of the United States for the eighth circuit and district of Kansas, the court of primary jurisdiction, a petition for a deficiency decree for the sum of $6,588,900.19, being the amount of said unpaid interest, together with interest thereon. The Union Pacific Railway Company answered this petition, denying the right of the United States to a deficiency decree against the Union Pacific Railway Company, contending, in substance, that it did not assume to pay or become liable for the debts of the Kansas Pacific Railway by its articles of union and consolidation with that company or otherwise; and that, on the contrary, by the articles of union and consolidation it was expressly provided that the Union Pacific Company should not assume the debts and liabilities of the constituent companies.

Such proceedings were thereafter had that on the 3d day of May, 1898, the matter came on for hearing before Judge Sanborn, in St. Paul, Minn., when it was ordered that the petition, answers, and issues be referred to W. D. Cornish, special master, to hear, investigate, determine, and report.

On the 14th day of February, 1898, upon application of the receivers in the original Ames case, Judge Sanborn made an order which provided, among other things, that all persons who claimed any interest in or lien upon any of the funds or property in the hands of such receivers, as their creditors or as creditors of the Union Pacific Railway Company, file their respective claims with William D. Cornish, the special master, at Omaha, on or before the 1st day of July, 1898, and that any party to the suits, or who filed a claim in accordance with the order, might file an answer to the claim of any other party within thirty days after July 1, 1898, and contest such claim.

No further action was taken with respect to the petition for a deficiency decree, for the reason, among others, that should the claim be allowed it would still be necessary to file the same under the foregoing order and contest the right of the United States to an interest in the funds or property in the hands of the Union Pacific Railway Company receivers.

Within the time provided by this order I filed the claim of the United States with the master, setting forth the facts upon which the same was based, claiming the same amount as above stated in the petition for a deficiency decree.

A large number of claims, aggregating a great amount, have been filed with the master under the foregoing order, and nearly every claimant has filed answer, contesting the right of every other claimant. These matters are still pending, but little testimony having been thus far taken. It is my intention at present to go to New York next Monday to make arrangements for taking testimony in the matter of the claim of the United States, and also in support of the contention of the United States in its answer made to other claims. I hope to close this matter up before the end of the year.

In the investigation of the claims filed as above stated I learned for the first time that on or about the 1st day of July, 1886, the Union Pacific Railway Company executed and delivered to the American Loan and Trust Company, as trustee, a certain deed of trust known, as termed, "Further security trust," wherein and whereby the railway company covenanted to pay over to said trustee certain moneys, or to deliver to it certain mortgage bonds of branches or extensions of the railroad of the Kansas Pacific Railway Company or of roads connected with the Kansas Pacific system or controlled by ownership of stock, said moneys or bonds to be held by the trustee thereby created for the benefit and further security of the first-mortgage bonds of the Kansas Pacific Railway Company, having priority over the lien of the United States for subsidy bonds issued to the Kansas Pacific Railway Company, and for the benefit, protection, and further security of the United States in respect of said subsidy bonds and interest thereon, and also for the benefit, protection, and further security of the consolidated mortgage bonds secured by a mortgage of May 1, 1879.

From time to time there was deposited with said trustee, under said trust deed, securities as follows:

Omaha and Republican Valley Railway Company consolidated mortgage bonds	$636,000
Junction City and Fort Kearney Railway Company first-mortgage branch bonds	171,000
Colorado Central Railroad Company first-mortgage bonds	197,000
Union Pacific, Lincoln and Colorado Railway Company first-mortgage bonds	74,000
Kansas Pacific Railway Company consolidated mortgage bonds	116,000
Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf Railway Company consolidated mortgage bonds	149,000

Provision is made in said trust deed for the sale and exchange from time to time of the securities so deposited, and that such sales may be made at any time it shall be deemed advisable by the Union Pacific Railway Company.

On the 27th day of June, 1898, said trustee filed its bill of complaint in equity in the circuit court of the United States for the district of Massachusetts, setting forth the execution and terms of said further security trust, and in substance alleging that under the circumstances the Union Pacific Railway Company could not act in the premises; that the trustee deemed it advisable that said securities be sold, and praying the direction of the court with respect thereto; that the complainant be directed to sell said securities, and that the proceeds of said sale, after deducting the necessary expenses, be held by the trustee in lieu of said securities so sold upon the terms, conditions, and trusts created by and declared in said trust deed. The only parties made defendants to this bill were the Union Pacific Railway Company and its receivers. A decree was entered as prayed, the securities sold, and there is now in the hands of said trustee, under said trust deed, the sum of about $548,000.

The United States was not made party to, nor notified of, the foregoing proceeding, all of which took place before I learned of the existence of said trust. The trust deed was never recorded, and, so far as I am aware, never came to the knowledge of the Attorney-General's office until communication with respect thereto was made by me.

Immediately I learned of the foregoing facts I wrote to the American Loan and Trust Company, as trustee, notifying it that the United States made claim to the securities and all the trust funds received by it under the further security trust deed.

Unless otherwise directed, I will file an original bill or intervene in the above-named cause on behalf of the United States, praying for an order or decree that the funds in the possession of said trustee under said trust deed be paid to the United States. From what I can learn of the securities and from the terms of the trust deed, I doubt the availability of questioning the proceeding whereby said securities were converted into cash.

I am not without confidence that said trust funds can be secured for the United States.

Permit me, in conclusion, to thank you for your specific and intelligent instructions and your appreciative regard and courtesy.

Respectfully submitted.

JOHN C. COWIN,
Special Counsel for the United States.

EXHIBIT X.—Recommendations of former Attorneys-General as to the building of the Department of Justice, and reports of Supervising Architects on its condition.

[Report of Attorney-General Garland for the fiscal year 1885, p. 44, under the heading: "Department buildings and grounds."]

* * * In this connection I wish to suggest the propriety of erecting on the grounds mentioned a proper building for the accommodation, in addition to the Department of Justice, of the Supreme Court and other proper courts and commissions of the United States. The necessity for quarters for the Supreme Court of the United States, other than those now occupied, is apparent; the present court room is manifestly too small, and its location not sufficiently apart from the publicity and bustle attending the sessions of Congress. Accommodations should be provided for the court, not only commensurate with its high position and dignity, but as well the character and volume of its work, the increasing growth of the bar, and the number of interested parties to causes and other spectators.

The site already belongs to the Government, is of sufficient size, and convenient to most of the Executive Departments and to the Executive Mansion.

Courts and commissions, having the dignity of, and acting in reality as, courts of the United States, are created from time to time as necessity calls for them. It seems fitting that these should be located in a proper Government building, with the Department of Justice and the Supreme Court, all convenient to each other and under one roof, and not, as now and heretofore, in rooms hired from private persons, at constant outlay for rent and other expenses.

[Report for fiscal year 1886, p. 18, under the same heading.]

I beg leave to renew the suggestions contained in my last report (pp. 44-45) as to the charge and control of department buildings and grounds, and for the erection of a suitable building for the accommodation of the United States courts held at Washington City.

[Report for fiscal year 1887, p. XV, under the heading: "new building for the Department of Justice, Supreme Court, and other courts and commissions of the United States."]

In my report for 1885 I suggested the propriety of erecting "a proper building for the accommodation, in addition to the Department of Justice, of the Supreme Court and other proper courts and commissions of the United States," and said:

The necessity for quarters for the Supreme Court of the United States, other than those now occupied, is apparent; the present court room is manifestly too small, and its location not sufficiently apart from the publicity and bustle attending the sessions of Congress. Accommodations should be provided for the court not only commensurate with its high position and dignity, but as well the character and volume of its work, the increasing growth of the bar, and the number of interested parties to causes and other spectators.

It seems fitting that these should be located in a proper Government building with the Department of Justice and the Supreme Court, all convenient to each other and under one roof, and not, as now and heretofore, in rooms hired from private persons at considerable outlay for rent and other expenses.

This suggestion I renewed in my report for last year. I now repeat it and urge the appropriation of a sufficient sum to erect upon the ground now occupied by the present building of the Department of Justice, and upon the lot adjoining it, a building such as I have mentioned above. The reasons for this suggestion, which I gave before, exist now and gain strength with every year that passes. While the court room proper is wanting, in convenience for the judges, officers of the court, and members of the bar, as already noticed, the clerk's office in its arrangements and accommodations is much worse.

[Report for fiscal year 1888, p. XIV, under the same heading.]

In my report for 1885 I suggested the propriety of erecting "a proper building for the accommodation, in addition to the Department of Justice, of the Supreme Court, and other proper courts and commissions of the United States," and said:

The necessity for quarters for the Supreme Court of the United States, other than those now occupied, is apparent; the present court room is manifestly too small, and its location not sufficiently apart from the publicity and bustle attending the sessions of Congress. This suggestion I renewed in my reports for 1886 and 1887 (p. XV). I now repeat it, and urge the appropriation of a sufficient sum to erect upon the ground now occupied by the present building of the Department of Justice and upon the lot adjoining it a building such as I have mentioned above. That now occupied by the Department is neither large enough nor of suitable construction and arrangement for its proper accommodation. The reasons for this suggestion which I gave before exist now and gain strength with every year that passes. While the court room proper of the Supreme Court is wanting in convenience for the judges, officers of the court, and members of the bar, as already noticed, the clerk's office in its arrangements and accommodations is much worse.

[Report of Attorney-General Miller for fiscal year 1891, p. XXIV, under the heading, "Additional room for Department of Justice."]

I beg to call the attention of Congress to the fact that every room in the Department of Justice is occupied; indeed, most of the rooms are occupied by from two to three or four persons. With the kind of work required to be done in this Department a good deal of inconvenience results from such crowding.

At every session of Congress additional work is imposed upon the Department, making necessary additional assistants and clerks. Thus, at the last session, the legislation with reference to the submission of claims for Indian depredations to the Court of Claims imposed upon the Department a large amount of additional work and requiring corresponding additional help. Aside from the work thus brought in by special enactments, the growth of the country results yearly in a large increase of business in the Department, and if this business is to be transacted in any proper manner provision must be made by Congress for enlarged quarters for the Department.

Fortunately the Government owns a large lot immediately contiguous to the Department, which can be used for this purpose.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE,

Washington, D. C., June 14, 1893.

SIR: I have the honor to request that, if not incompatible with his duties, you direct the Supervising Architect, who is now engaged in inspecting certain of the public buildings used by the Government in this city, to examine the building of the Department of Justice: not that I have any particular reason to suppose the building to be in any way insecure, but I deem it, in the light of recent events, a matter of wise precaution to have such an examination made as will assure me, and others who may have to occupy the building, that it is perfectly safe and entirely fitted for such use as it is now or likely to be put to under the present administration.

Very respectfully,

RICHARD OLNEY,
Attorney-General.

The SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,

Washington, D. C., July 6, 1893.

SIR: In response to the request contained in your letter of the 14th ultimo, I have the honor to inclose copy of a report dated the 28th ultimo of an examination made by the Supervising Architect of this Department, of the building in this city occupied by the Department of Justice.

Respectfully, yours,

C. S. HAMLIN,
*Acting Secretary.*The ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
Washington, D. C.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

OFFICE OF THE SUPERVISING ARCHITECT,

Washington, D. C., June 28, 1893.

SIR: As directed by you, at the request of the Attorney-General, I have personally inspected the building, occupied by the Department of Justice, situated on the north side of Pennsylvania avenue, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, NW., this city, and have the honor to report as follows:

The building is of brick with stone trimmings and consists of cellar, four stories, and French-roof attic.

The floor beams are of iron with brick floor arches.

It was erected about 1868 for Freedman's Savings Bank and was used for that purpose up to 1873.

The construction of the building is of ordinary contract quality, not first-class. Pronounced cracks are perceptible in the brick partition walls, in the front wall, and in some of the brick floor arches, resulting from unequal settlement of foundations and possible slight outward movement of the front wall.

The law library is placed in the front rooms of the fourth story, and these floors are now loaded with bookcases as heavily as is consistent with safety.

The northwest corner room on the fifth or attic story is used for a storeroom for books and papers; this room is now dangerously overloaded, and I find on inquiry that all the rooms on this and the library floors are liable to the same dangerous overloading by constant accumulations of the same kind.

The average safe load, uniformly distributed, for the several floors of the building, is forty-three (43) pounds per superficial foot for the greater spans, and sixty-eight (68) pounds per superficial foot for the lesser spans.

To weight the floors in excess of the above-mentioned safe load would be to court disaster.

In conclusion, I beg to state, in answer to the concluding clause of the Attorney-General's communication, that, for the foregoing stated reasons, I do not consider the building "perfectly safe or entirely fitted for such use as it is now, or is likely to be put to under the present administration."

Very respectfully,

J. O'ROURKE,
Supervising Architect.

The SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY,

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
Washington, D. C., November 4, 1898.

SIR: In response to a request from a representative of the Department of Justice, I have the honor to inclose letter addressed to me under date of the 4th instant by the supervising architect of this Department, reporting on matters relating to the integrity of the building in this city occupied by that Department, accompanied by a statement as to the capacity of the building, as to present needs, and submitting an approximate estimate of the cost of the erection of a new building on the unoccupied lot adjoining the present structure.

Respectfully, yours,

O. L. SPAULDING,
Acting Secretary.

The ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE SUPERVISING ARCHITECT,
Washington, D. C., November 4, 1898.

SIR: In response to an oral request made by a representative of the Department of Justice, I have the honor to state that inquiry has been made as to the strength of the building in this city occupied by that Department, as to its integrity and capacity.

The building is of what is known as fireproof construction, except the fifth story, or roof, which is constructed of wood. Numerous cracks have developed in the third and fourth stories near the outside walls running through the last floor arch and down the partition walls to the top of doors, caused, it is believed, by an outward motion in the outside walls.

The present space is entirely inadequate to meet the requirements of the Department, and it would be manifestly unsafe to add an additional story. It would seem that the proper method which should be adopted to afford the desired relief, would be the erection of a new building on the adjoining lot, and upon completion thereof that the present building be removed.

The present aggregate area of the four floors is 26,400 square feet, and as this quantity is 50 per cent less than that required, a new building, if erected, should contain 52,800 square feet. Such a building could be located on the unoccupied land adjoining the present building, and would involve an outlay roughly estimated at $500,000.

Respectfully, yours,

JAMES KNOX TAYLOR,
Supervising Architect.

The SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

EXHIBIT Z¹.—Report of the Commission to Revise and Codify the Criminal and Penal Laws of the United States.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November 28, 1898.

SIR: The commission appointed in pursuance of an act of Congress entitled "An act making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898, and for other purposes," respectfully report as follows:

In pursuance of the authority conferred by the act mentioned the President appointed as commissioners Albert C. Thompson, of Ohio, Alexander C. Botkin, of Montana, and David B. Culberson, of Texas. The commissioners named qualified on the 1st day of July, 1897, and as soon thereafter as rooms could be secured and furnished entered upon the performance of their duties. Albert C. Thompson was elected chairman of the commission.

On the 22d of September, 1898, Albert C. Thompson resigned and David K. Watson, of Ohio, was appointed as his successor. On the 27th day of September, 1898, Alexander C. Botkin was elected chairman, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Thompson.

The attention of the commission was promptly directed to the condition of the criminal laws for the district of Alaska. An act of Congress entitled "An act providing a civil government for Alaska," approved May 17, 1884, provided "That the general laws of the State of Oregon now in force are hereby declared to be the law in said district so far as the same may be applicable and not in conflict with the provisions of this act or the laws of the United States." The condition of the criminal laws for that district was found to be gravely deficient, especially in view of the large increase of population consequent upon the discovery of gold placers. In view of this condition the commissioners proceeded promptly to revise and codify the laws of Oregon, with such changes as were necessary to adapt them to Alaska. A criminal code and a code of criminal procedure were prepared by the commission and submitted to the Attorney-General in a special report on the 12th day of January, 1898, and the codes so submitted were reported by the Attorney-General to Congress and are now embraced in a bill which is pending in the House of Representatives. This work has been examined by the governor, judge of the district court, and other officers of Alaska, and has been earnestly approved by them as supplying the needs of the population of the district.

On the 1st of June, 1898, Congress adopted a concurrent resolution as follows:

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring), That the commission heretofore appointed pursuant to the act of June 4, 1897, to revise and codify the criminal and penal laws of the United States be, and is hereby, directed to prepare and through the Attorney-General submit to Congress at the earliest practicable date a codification of the laws other than criminal and a code of procedure thereunder for the district of Alaska.

In pursuance of this instruction we have proceeded with the preparation of a civil code and a code of civil procedure for the said district, which we will report at an early day.

In the further performance of our duties we have prepared a code to define and punish crimes and offenses committed within "any fort, arsenal, dock yard, magazine, or in any other place or district under the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States, or upon the high seas or in any arm of the sea, or in any river, haven, creek, basin, or bay within the admiralty and maritime jurisdiction of the United States and out of the jurisdiction of any particular State." In view of the serious importance of this title we deemed it desirable to invite suggestions as to its plan and preparation. Accordingly, under authority of an act of Congress, we have caused copies of the same to be printed and have forwarded them to the circuit and district judges of the United States courts, United States attorneys, and others, with the request that they should communicate to us such corrections as should occur to them.

We have also prepared the titles concerning "Offenses against the sovereignty of the United States," "Offenses against the laws of nations," "Offenses against the elective franchise and civil rights of citizens," and "Offenses against public justice." Considerable progress has been made in the preparation of other titles not enumerated in the above.

In recognition of the practice pursued in previous revisions, we have prepared side notes referring to the decisions of courts that would aid in construing the text. This work has been materially promoted by the intelligent and diligent assistance of Mr. N. T. Crutchfield, law clerk of the commission.

The advanced stage of our labors confronts us with a question of serious embarrassment, to which we directed your attention in a letter dated November 19, 1898, which we respectfully request may be considered a part of this report. This has respect to sections in existing laws embodying provisions nonpenal and also provisions for the punishment of disobedience. Attention is respectfully invited to the fact that, so far as these provisions are penal, it would seem to be the contemplation of the law that they should be embraced in the criminal code. At the same time they can not be separated from the context without destroying the orderly arrangement of the statutes by topics. We refer to this matter for the reason that some action by Congress may be found necessary in the premises.

Very respectfully,

ALEX. C. BOTKIN.
D. B. CULBERSON.
DAVID K. WATSON.
